

Davey Is 'Hopeful' But Picket Lines Remain to Cloud Steel Strike Peace

Gov. Davey Promises Another Conference with Steel Companies Involved—Outlook for Settlement Not Bright.

OTHER STRIKES

Iron Miners, Auto Workers, Lumberjacks and Workers in Kindred Industries at Odds.

(By The Associated Press)

Non-committal statements from Ohio's governor and Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, on their conference at Columbus left in doubt today the status of peace negotiations in the seven-state steel strike.

Gov. Martin L. Davey repated he was "hopeful," and Murray said the conference was "satisfactory," but long picket lines were maintained at the steel mills.

The governor indicated he would hold another conference with officials of the Republic Steel Corporation and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. Those companies and Inland Steel are involved in the strike.

In northern Minnesota the S. W. O. C. started its drive to unionize iron miners who dig most of the ore for the nation's steel mills.

Striking United Automobile Workers rejected their leaders' proposal to return to work Monday in the Richmond, Calif., assembly plant of the Ford Motor Co. Earlier the company announced plans to reopen the plant, closed 11 days.

Trouble in Michigan
Conciliators and state police strove for peace in the tense lumberjacks' strike in northern Michigan. Gov. Frank Murphy dispatched the police to Munising after strikers battled employees of the Newberry Lumber and Chemical Company. The strike affected an estimated 6,000 'jacks.

Higher wages and better working conditions were the demands.

Reports that 99 per cent of the nearly 90,000 workers in the Ford Motor Company in Michigan had signed membership cards in "the Ford Brotherhood of America" as a rival to the U. A. W., were heard in Detroit. One official said 80,000 workers had signed pledges of allegiance to the Ford management.

A conference between S. W. O. C. chieftains and officials of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., was regarded as a possible prelude to an agreement.

Postal Telegraph.
At Akron, O., employees of the Postal Telegraph Co. sought to enlist sympathetic strikers Monday at the firm's offices in other cities. They struck for higher pay and shorter hours.

Steel strikes which stopped shipment of materials caused the closing of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's shops and the Chevrolet Motor Company plant at Baltimore. Approximately 3,600 employees were affected.

Negotiators attempted to end a sit-down strike of 150 members of the crew of the liner Florida at Miami. Rejection of the strikers' demand for immediate union recognition by the Peninsular and Occidental line caused cancellation of the liner's sailing for Havana with 260 passengers last night.

A walkout by members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, an A. F. of L. union, tied up 47 Omaha, Neb., trucking companies.

DIPLOMATS SEEK RE-ENTRY OF ITALY, NAZIS IN COUNCIL.
Paris, June 5 (AP)—Diplomats of France and Great Britain, seeking to make effective a policy of isolation of the Spanish civil war, pressed hard today to bring Germany and Italy back into the non-intervention committee's fold with promises of safety for naval patrol vessels.

At the same time French foreign office sources disclosed proposals which the government of Premier Leon Blum hoped would widen the naval blockade's scope and also make easier the fixing of responsibility for untoward incidents.

France will ask that all members of the 27-nation committee be represented in the naval patrol which had been composed only of French, British, German and Italian ships.

Such a move would bring in Soviet Russia as well as lesser European powers, to tighten the blockade against men and munitions bound for war-torn Spain.

Gypsy Was Wrong
Burgos, Spain, June 5 (AP)—The Gypsy fortune teller was wrong, Gen. Emilio Mola, 59-year-old right-hand man of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, died with his boots off. An officer at Mola's funeral yesterday said the general once was told by a Gypsy soothsayer that he would die with his boots on, so Mola always jokingly removed his footgear when flying over the warfronts. Dr. Díez Melchor of Alcocero near which Mola's plane crashed into a fog-bound mountainside Thursday, reported Mola wore no boots.

Rev. Jardine to Tell Parish Reason He Married Windsors

Darlington, Eng., June 5 (AP)—The Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, the "poor man's parson" who defied the frown of the Anglican hierarchy by blessing the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, came back to his vicarage today, saying "I would do it again."

No welcoming delegations awaited him after the trip from Chateau de Candé and London but on the desk of his study was a stack of more than 300 telegrams and letters from all parts of England and the continent.

The vicar was told that nearly all the communications were congratulatory.

One, from a London clubman, said: "Concerning your action to our beloved Duke of Windsor, I wish to say I am convinced the vast majority of Anglican Church people are against the unchristlike and unsporting attitude of leaders of the church."

Full Explanation.
Mr. Jardine announced he would make a full explanation of his action to his parishioners at the Sunday evening service.

Exhausted after his night-long travel, he went to bed immediately to rest before performing another marriage ceremony today—this one for a Derbyshire couple.

Mr. Jardine, vicar of St. Paul's church, said he had a "special treat" for the bride and bridegroom—a portion of a cut from the Windsor's wedding cake which the Duchess sent as a present to Mrs. Jardine.

To wed the Derbyshire couple he had his little red-backed prayer book in which the Duke and Duchess inscribed their autographs on the momentous Thursday in France.

Edward also gave Mr. Jardine a pair of gold cuff links.

Edward's bride signed the prayer-book as "Wallis, Duchess of Windsor."

The book will not be used again after today's ceremony, the clergyman said, because "it is too sacred to use again; it will be locked away among my intimate things."

Windsors Unafraid of Ghosts
Neotich, Austria, June 5 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor honeymooned today in blissful disregard of the ghosts of a 16th century "Lady Bluebeard's" six husbands and a prowling wolf that has spread fear among the country folk.

They entered the domestic phase of their famous romance at gray old Wasserleuburg castle while a corps of 32 unemployed men beat through the woods and brush of the countryside, including the castle grounds, for the wolf that has harassed the neighborhood for months, threatening the flocks in the Alpine slopes.

The recently renewed efforts to slay the roving beast, together with the arrival of the former British monarch and his blue-eyed bride threw the countryside into pretty much of a dither.

The Duke, who excitedly neglected to kiss the bride when they were married Thursday at Chateau de Candé in France, fulfilled with neat dispatch another honeymoon custom when he carried her grace over the threshold of what is to be their home for at least three months.

A bright moon silvered the aged walls of Wasserleuburg and sharply outlined the surrounding mountain peaks when Edward, turning in the castle forecourt, turned impulsively to his merry duchess, picked her up and carried her through the portal.

He held her slim form without stumbling which, according to those who cherish the custom, meant their married life would be happy. The world over, carrying the bride across the threshold symbolizes the start of a new life at the end of the honeymoon journey.

Simpson Slander Action
London, June 5 (AP)—An action charging slander, brought by Ernest A. Simpson, former husband of the Duchess of Windsor, against Mrs. Joan Sutherland, was listed as Number 23 today in the list made public for special June jury action in the King's Bench division. Solicitors are prepared to proceed with the case June 11 or shortly thereafter. Attorneys indicated the allegation was based on a remark Simpson said the society woman, wife of Lieut. Col. A. H. C. Sutherland, made at a luncheon party after Edward III abdicated.

Rescue Work Rushed
Ely, Minn., June 5 (AP)—Grimy, iron ore miners worked at top speed in the inner recesses of the Pioneer mine today in a desperate attempt to rescue two fellow workers trapped by a cave-in 1,300 feet below the surface. The imprisoned miners, John Kavach and Tony Kromar, both about 50 years old, were working on the east side of the "A" shaft on the 13th level when the mishap occurred.

Rescue crews were hampered by the danger of other cave-ins and wet muddy ore. Miners said the victims were completely covered and had little chance of getting out alive.

A KISS FOR A LUCKY MIDDY

Jack Arthur Obermeyer of New York, honor man of the graduating class, won four pairs of binoculars, three watches—and a kiss from Mary Margaret Scott of South Orange, N. J., as 319 midshipmen graduated at the U. S. Naval Academy. Here's the salute to the navy through a shell hole in armor plate.

McCord Case Heard By Judge Schirick, Agreement Reached

Alleging that Arthur McCord, judgment-debtor, had cancelled a contract with Welch & Co. and then had a similar contract drawn up in favor of his daughter, Dorothy McCord, whereby she delivers milk to the company was pleaded in special term of Supreme Court Friday by Arthur Ewig, who appeared in an action brought by Dairyman's League Co-operative Association against Arthur McCord. Mr. Ewig, who appeared for Mr. Miller, attorney in the case, said that in July, 1935, a judgment was secured against McCord in the sum of $836.08.

At that time McCord operated a dairy farm and sold milk to Welch & Co. under a contract. Some payments were made on the judgment and then McCord's contract with Welch & Co. was cancelled and a new contract was entered into between the company and Dorothy McCord. When this new contract came into being the payments by McCord on the League judgment ceased. An investigation showed that he no longer was being paid by the milk company but that his daughter was receiving the money under a new contract and her father was being paid $10 a month and received his room and board. His salary being so small it was impossible to garnish the usual 10 per cent.

Mr. Ewig said that in his opinion the new arrangement made to avoid payment of the judgment by the judgment-debtor. He said McCord was doing the same work as prior and he asked the court to determine what payments, actually, the defendant was getting. He told the court that as a part of his salary his room and board might be considered and he said this was worth $50 a month which with the $10 salary brought his wage to a substantial amount.

Thomas Plunkett, who appeared for the defendant, said McCord's contract was revoked because he was not taking care of his cattle and producing the milk required. He denied that McCord ever was paid prior to cancellation of the contract for cartage of the milk and said he never had the cartage money. He told the court that $50 a month for room and board for a farm hand was

Education Department To Hear DeCicco Case On Monday, June 14

Albany, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—The State Department of Education today set June 14 at 2 p. m., for a public hearing on a petition asking removal of Michael DeCicco as a trustee of School District Number 7, Town of Ulster, in Ulster county.

The hearing will be held at the state education building here. The petition was filed by Mrs. Mary Olivetti, East Kingston taxpayer, who charged DeCicco with "violation of his duty" on three grounds. DeCicco subsequently filed an answer to the charges, and appealed to the department to dismiss the petition.

Concert Members More Than 500

The Kingston Cooperative Concert Association which is presenting in this city next season: The Barre Little Symphony; Joe Ilurbi, pianist; Rose Hampton, mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and the Ionian Singers, held a check up meeting last evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel to determine the progress being made by those who are enrolling members during the one-week campaign.

The meeting revealed that at the end of the third drive over 500 people had already become members. Thirty-seven of the captains and workers who are helping on the campaign were present. More than 50 per cent of the workers have not yet made reports and all who have reported are still working. This check-up definitely points toward an enrollment within a few days of 1,123 members, which is the seating capacity of the high school auditorium where the concerts will be held. Last year's membership was nearly 1,100 and this year's enrollment is expected to be much larger.

Membership in the association is open to everyone and the dues are the same as last year. An effort is being made to enroll all former members of the association first. Very few who were members last year are not renewing their memberships.

Historical Society Hears Papers, Pays Tribute to T. Brink

The June meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, met a somewhat reduced attendance due to a number of affairs of historical significance now in progress elsewhere, including the celebrations at Woodstock and New Paltz, but at that there was a goodly number of the members present when Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck called the meeting to order shortly after 11 o'clock this morning.

In brief preliminary remarks welcoming the members, Judge Hasbrouck took occasion to stress the deep significance of the work of the society, chartered by the Board of Regents and of educational value. Successor to the Ulster Historical Society, organized in 1863 and a revival of that society in 1930, Judge Hasbrouck suggested that now, with brighter times apparently in prospect, an attempt should be made to largely increase its membership so that more effective work might be done. With a larger membership, he said, it might be possible to pay for the work of investigation which would be necessary to prepare more comprehensive papers upon the customs of the early settlers of this region—how they lived, what they ate and how they prepared their food, how they built their homes—as distinguished from papers dealing more exclusively with individuals and specific houses. "The work of the society," said the Judge, "ought to be of interest to more of the younger generation." He said that it was of importance to them to know "from what sources their parents came and where their roots lie." The Judge said that the society has a present membership of about 240 and he asked that each one of the present members try during the coming year to add one new member to the society.

Preliminary to the literary part of the meeting, Judge Hasbrouck read an invitation to the members to attend the celebration to be held by the Flatbush Reformed Church June 9 and 10. Willis G. Nash, chairman of the committee to prepare a tribute to the late Theodore Brink of Lake Katrine was recognized and read the following tribute, which was unanimously adopted:

Memorial to Theodore Brink
"Coming to Ulster county in the earliest days of settlement, the Brink family has given tone and character to its citizenship for seven generations of unbroken record for high thinking, righteous living and conscientious social service."

Theodore Brink held his walk and conversation in the footsteps of his forebears on the very lands of their original occupancy in 1688, for more than the three score years and ten of the Scriptural Span, maintaining and illustrating with a peculiar personal pride, the fine qualities and aspirations of the Brink family tradition.

"He endeared himself to all who had the privilege of association with him by his constant extension of good will and gracious interest in the welfare of his fellows."

"In this society he was devoted to its aims and shared in all its activities from its re-organization in 1930 until his death and he gave to his duties as its treasurer his best attention and care."

"His 47 years as postmaster of his native town, unique in post office history, testify to his devotion of public service and his lively interest in his home community. Therefore be it

"Resolved, that we of the Ulster County Historical Society mourn the

June Snow Surprises Several Western States

Denver, June 5 (AP)—A June snow—westerners scarcely could believe what their own eyes saw—melted on the highlands of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana today but the shocked weather-wise were not ready to predict that summer was here.

Contrasted with the frost-kissed large bluffs of snow that fell on Cheyenne, Wyo., was the muddy rain flung on Lamar, in southeastern Colorado's dust-blown sector. A dust storm reached Lamar just as the rain started.

Snow ranged from a brief flurry at Denver to a 12-hour storm that left 18 inches of snow on some of the Bighorn Mountains in Wyoming.

The skies began to clear last night and airplane traffic, halted during the day, was resumed.

A large party renewed their search today for Mrs. Margaret Kelly, 77-year-old Wyoming ranch woman, who left a neighboring ranch Tuesday to hunt for a cow and failed to return.

Rockefeller's Will Discloses Oil Baron Left 25 Millions

White Plains, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who amassed one of the world's greatest fortunes—left a gross estate of $530,000,000 in charities and philanthropies—left a gross estate of about $25,000,000, the filing of his will today disclosed.

New York, it was estimated in Albany, will collect about $4,350,000 in taxes.

Rockefeller, whose dream of living to be 100 years old, was cut short by death on May 23, less than two months short of his 95th birthday, had disposed of most of his vast holdings by 1922, and in that year paid an income tax of only $12,063.03.

He drew up his will June 2, 1935, then appended three codicils, the last of which, dated October 3, 1934, took cognizance of bequests he had made to his family earlier, and named his granddaughter, Mrs. Margaret Strong De Cuevas, of Lakewood, N. J., and her descendants beneficiaries.

Codicil for Granddaughter.

"I am setting up this trust fund for the benefit of my granddaughter, Margaret, and her descendants to the exclusion of my other grandchildren and their descendants," the aged capitalist wrote, "because when I thought of my children the responsibility of owning and administering substantial sums and for that purpose made large gifts to or for them, my oldest daughter, Bessie, the mother of my granddaughter, Margaret, was not living."

Mrs. De Cuevas, whose mother died November 14, 1906, has two children, Elizabeth and John. She and her husband, George, were married August 3, 1927. Her father, Prof. Charles Augustus Strong, former professor of psychology at the University of Chicago, lives at Plesio, Italy.

Under the codicil, the trust fund is to be administered by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Barrtran Cutler and Thomas M. Dewey.

"They are empowered to pay the income to her or to one or more of her descendants or to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research."

Residuary Estate

Under Rockefeller's original will Rockefeller, who died at Ormond Beach, Fla., after disposing of his personal and household effects, left the residuary estate, in equal shares to the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial and to his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The first two codicils, dated May 14, 1903, and November 4, 1932 made no particular difference in the will. The third, however, made radical changes, since it named Mrs. De Cuevas.

Mrs. De Cuevas has two children Elizabeth De Cuevas and John De Cuevas. She was married August 3, 1927.

Under the codicil the trust fund upon the death of Mrs. De Cuevas, is to be divided among her children and the descendants of any deceased child, each beneficiary to receive his or her share outright, except that the share of any child of Mrs. De Cuevas born during the elder Rockefeller's life, is to be continued in trust for the life of the child.

Rate Reduction Extended
Albany, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—A six-months extension of reduced railroad rates on New York state shipments of fresh plums and prunes in carload lots of 20,000 pounds or more, was announced today by State Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Ten Eyck.

The Eyck said the extension would become effective June 30.

Field Events Fill Morning Schedule as 600 Boy Scouts Show Excellence of Training in Range of Activities.

STREET PARADE

Demonstrations Late This Afternoon—Church Service Sunday, Presentation of Awards.

The grounds of the new armory presented a busy picture this morning as 600 Boy Scouts of two counties roused up to compete in the various activities planned for the day's program by Scout Executive William Wright.

This annual Camp-o-ree is the largest delegation of Scouts centered in a single location in some time, and the tents dotting the landscape gave the appearance of an army encamped.

The activities officially commenced at 8:30 o'clock Friday evening with a large campfire celebrating one of the most successful years that Scouting has enjoyed in this territory.

Judges Present.

The field events got under way this morning with six local men, supplied through the cooperation of the Federation of Men's Clubs, doing the judging. These men were Everett Smith, Harry Goldworthy, Walter Tromper, the Rev. Cornelius Mayne, Dave Harris and Ralph Finneson.

The first event, fire by flint and steel, was won by Troop 29, Troop 42 second. The fire by bow and drill was captured by Troop 52, with Troop 26 second. The stretcher race saw Troops 40 and 20 coming in first and second, with one troop depositing its "patient" on the ground rather unceremoniously. The hat and shoe relay, demonstrating some first moving dressing and undressing, was won by Troop 46 and Troop 11. The boat centipede race saw Troop 40 and 14 come out on top, with the basket relay race being won by Troop 61, Troop 40 second. The obstacle relay race was won by Troop 40 and Troop 21, and the neckerchief race went to Troop 16 and Troop 6. The Paul Rogers race saw Troops 14 and 26 gain first and second honors, and the water bolting contest went to Troops 26 and 40. The chariot race and wall-scaling races were not finished in the morning's program.

Troop 40 Leading

Troop 40 of the Northern and Saugerties districts, gained three first place places and two seconds to lead the field by a wide margin, as no other troop had more than one first place.

Troops in the Kingston district that competed in the various events were numbered 3, 6, 11, 12, 19, 20, 26; southern, mountain and western districts, 14, 16, 33, 60, 61, 62, 51, 52, 53, Rondout valley northern, and Saugerties districts, 23, 27, 28, 29, 40, 42, 46, 47, 35, 36, 38.

A parade will be held this afternoon which will include many floats, and following this gala event will come demonstrations and exhibitions of the various phases of scouting.

Sunday morning will feature a corporate church service, review, and the awarding of honors gained through the participation in the program of the Camp-o-ree.

Similar Camp-o-rees are being held throughout the entire Hudson valley this week-end, but Scout Executive Wright is already planning to hold one large Camp-o-ree next year which will include Scouts from the eastern section of New York state.

House Votes on Inquiry

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Settlement of a dispute over publishing individuals' financial secrets has cleared the way for a House vote next week on the proposed congressional inquiry into tax dodging. Two House committees agreed, it was learned, that information obtained at secret hearings should be made public only by a vote of the investigating committee on each case. The information is expected to deal particularly with the financial affairs of wealthy individuals.

Smith Evidence Ready

Buffalo, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—District Attorney Walter C. Newcombe today withdrew into shape for presentation to a Supreme Court jury Monday his evidence against 19-year-old Tommy Smith, on trial for his life. The jury that will decide whether the poker-faced newsboy is guilty of murdering Mary Ellen Babcock, 18, last Feb. 6, was completed last night. During the past three years 139 talesmen had been examined. There will be no court session today.

Boy Scouts for Prisoners

Barcelona, June 5 (AP)—Twenty-eight Spanish boy scouts whom the civil war caught camping in the Pyrenees sailed today for Marseille, France, to be exchanged for 70 adult prisoners of the insurgents. The boys had been in custody of Catalan (Government) Boy Scouts. The exchange was arranged by the International Red Cross.

Court Bill Compromise May Cause Break in Several Major Legislative Deadlocks in Congress

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Deadlocks on several major legislative issues are beginning to break, leaders said today, following hints of compromise on the Roosevelt court bill. "That bill is the key to the situation," said Senator Harrison, (D., Miss.), surveying the problems facing Congress at the start of its sixth month.

Although the outcome of the court battle was regarded as uncertain by many legislators, they noted that disagreements over the proposed tax inquiry, farm tenancy aids, and relief funds gradually were being settled.

Some issues—such as government reorganization and regional planning—remained highly controversial. Consequently few members expected adjournment before late August.

The principal bills and the status of each in brief:

Relief—The House this week voted $1,500,000,000 for the year beginning July 1, removing "earmarking" provisions after President Roosevelt made concessions for freer use of PWA funds. Economy advocates will seek to reduce the amount in the Senate next week.

Wages and hours—Hearings are being held on the President's request to establish minimum and maximum standards and to ban child labor in interstate industries. Some advisers of the President say this bill may get precedence over the court bill.

Government Reorganization—A Senate committee may recommend an all-inclusive bill almost any day. A House committee is drafting severals bills instead. Determined opposition is predicted, especially to a proposal to curtail the comptroller general's power.

Taxes—Congressional investigation of tax avoidance is intended as a preliminary to legislation closing loopholes. The House is expected to vote for the inquiry next week, leaders having settled argument over its procedure.

Farm—The farm surplus control and price stabilization bill faces opposition which may result in deferment until next session. A bill to aid tenant farmers is scheduled for consideration first, authorizing expenditure of $10,000,000 in the coming year.

Housing—The Wagner proposal for an extensive slum clearance program is on the administration "desirable" list. Difficulties over the method of financing are being ironed out.

Flood Control and Power—Appropriations for many authorized flood control projects have been proposed. The President recommended that projects hereafter be executed on the basis of regional plans embracing conservation, irrigation, power development. Action appears likely to go over until 1938. In five months Congress has enacted several major measures.

These include renewal of the President's authority to reveal the gold dollar, adoption of the "cash and carry" neutrality policy, extension of the reciprocal tariff trading act and of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; establishment of control over the soft coal industry and permission for Supreme Court justices to retire on full pay at 70.

Articles Made by Blind Now on Sale

Tuesday will be the second day at the sale for the blind which is being held at Broadway, corner of Albany avenue. All who patronize this sale will have the satisfaction of accomplishing two desirable objects. They will first be able to purchase an article which they need in the home at a most reasonable price and then they will have the gratification of knowing that they are helping some worthy blind worker support himself. The sale will continue through Saturday, June 19.

Every sightless worker is paid weekly for his work and his pay envelope often contains enough not only for his livelihood, but also sufficient for recreation and diversion. With your help this earning power of the blind can be made permanent and extended to those who are asking for an opportunity to regain their economic value in their community.

In the store you will find many articles suitable for gifts to friends and relatives, as well as the everyday articles which are used each day in the homes.

The Kingston Lions Club is sponsoring the sale. Gordon Craig is general chairman and Mrs. Joseph H. Craig is co-chairman. Committees from the various churches will have charge of the sale at assigned periods. On Wednesday and Thursday of this week the following committees will be in charge:

Wednesday, 10 to 2—Christian Scientists, Mrs. William Anderson, chairman; Mrs. Florence Anderson, Mrs. Elizabeth Gildersleeve, Mrs. Dorothy La Frenz, Mrs. D. E. Bird-sall, Mrs. May S. Curtis, Mrs. Ellice G. Van Wagon, Mrs. Ellice Schryver.

PLEADS SEPARATION CONSIDERATION INVALID

An action to set aside a separation agreement entered into in September of 1935 and application for alimony and counsel fees pending trial of a separation action before the court, was made Friday in an action Ethel M. Freer against J. Freer, Arthur B. Ewig appeared for plaintiff and George Rusk for the defendant.

Mr. Ewig told the court that in 1935 the parties entered into a separation agreement whereby the plaintiff was given some household furnishings and a Ford truck. This he claimed was not a valid consideration and he held that the plaintiff should be granted temporary alimony and counsel fees pending trial of an action to set aside the former separation agreement and the granting of a separation by the court. He said that in his opinion the property given to plaintiff at the time of the agreement between them in 1935 was not to be considered as a sufficient consideration to relieve the husband of any future support. The husband he said earned $200 a month as an employee of L. A. Construction Company and was now working on the Highland state highway job. Previously the parties had lived in Delaware county and had been married in Ulster county.

Mr. Rusk, for the husband, said the wife had been given household furniture of a value of $500 and also a Ford truck worth $100 and this was all the property the husband had. He held that this was a substantial consideration and that any consideration named in the separation agreement was valid. Mr. Rusk also argued that no alimony could be directed by the court while the present separation agreement was in effect. The first step to be taken in such an action was to have the present agreement set aside by the court and then pending trial of an action for separation in the court application could be made to the court for temporary alimony and counsel fees. The present separation action is valid he said until the court sets it aside and in the present agreement the plaintiff has not been promised any alimony.

Justice Schrick directed papers submitted by Wednesday.

Some of the most skillfully made arrowheads found in the United States recently were unearthed in San Diego county, Calif.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 5, 1937.

SPECIAL TAX PRIVILEGE.

One of the most curious and widespread evasions of the federal income tax law is the immunity of public employees. According to Columnist Westbrook Pegler, who is conducting a one-man crusade in this field, the President is going to ask Congress to do something about it,
 but Congress will probably buck.
 The law says that it shall apply to all incomes from whatever source derived, but a Supreme Court decision and congressional inaction have made it inoperative. Pegler

The millions of public employees, including the President himself, will continue to enjoy their immunities;
 labor unions will suffer no such prying inquiry as employers must endure, and religious organizations which frankly engage in propaganda and otherwise attempt to influence legislation will remain above a law which Congress passed, but which nobody in Washington has the temerity to enforce.

This exemption and the reciprocal immunity of state, county and federal employees from the federal income tax rests upon decisions of the Supreme Court, which seem to thwart the intentions of the laws;
 but while the New Deal is in a mood to destroy the judgment of the nine old men on certain matters, the administration has been strangely acquiescent in this curious interpretation.

Such talk may be lese-majesty,
 but it makes people think. Citizens in general might not try so hard to "beat the government" in their income taxes if such taxes were paid
 also by the great army of public employees.

HEBREW EXILES

If the world's Jews are not now in "the greatest crisis of their history," as Rabbi Stephen Wise of New York says, they seem to be near
 it. The persecution to which they are subject in Germany under Nazi rule is well known. Similar hardships are threatened in Italy by one of Mussolini's latest utterances. In Poland the government has announced exile for the 3,000,000 Jews
 in that country.

The "totalitarian states" are strangely harsh toward this ancient and much persecuted race. In country after country there are new evidences of cruelty and injustice.
 Only in America and England, of the big countries, do the Hebrews find a secure refuge.

How can Poland, or any country, expel 3,000,000 people? That would greatly surpass the exodus from Egypt and the captivity in Babylon, and many another famous heira of this and other persecuted races. The Polish Jews are mostly poor, and even if they were not they would hardly be allowed to take much with them. How would they depart?
 Where would they go, and who of their neighbors would take them?
 Such an expulsion seems impossible even physically, aside from the injustice and misery it would entail.

If the League of Nations has any power, or the individual powers have any sense of responsibility, it is time something decent, humane and practical were done about this problem.
 America has done much for the Jews,
 but probably must do more.

GUERNICA BOMBERS.

A natural aftermath of the bombing of the Basques "Holy City" of Guernica was the sentencing of three German air pilots to be shot by a loyalist firing squad. They are said to have admitted their participation in the recent air raid, in which an unfortified and undefended town containing only old men, women and children was first deluged with bombs from the sky and then raked with machine gun fire, by foreign aviators, flying low and slaughtering
 the inhabitants in the streets and the market place. Eight hundred women and children were reported to have died in that attack, and the town was virtually destroyed—all except an arms factory which the assaulters saved for their own use.

It is to the eternal shame of the Nazi government, which has been protesting the executions, that the military aviators perpetrating this outrage are said to belong to the German Army. The pity of it is that individual flyers, who merely obey orders as they are obliged to do, should be held responsible for such crimes instead of the authorities directing them.

DETAILS AND FAITH

Here is another noble utterance of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, worth preserving in scrap books or pasting on the wall. It was written by the veteran jurist to the young legal wizard, Charles Wyzanski, Jr., who has been winning cases for the government in the Supreme Court, when he entered the law school. But it is applicable to anyone or any occupation. Justice Holmes wrote:

However a man feels about his work, nature is likely to see to it that his business becomes his master and an end in itself, so that he may find he has been a martyr under the illusion of self-seeking. For your sake, I hope that when your work seems to present only mean details, you may realize that every detail has the mystery of the universe behind it, and may keep your heart with an undying faith.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THREE POINTS TO WATCH.

In the first daily health article I ever wrote I told of a woman who had consulted me regarding reducing her weight. Before I had any opportunity of speaking she quietly informed me that she didn't want me to interfere with her diet in any way as she like good things to eat. She next said that she hated exercise and wouldn't want to take any exercise.

And finally, while I listened in astonishment, she said that she did like to rest; in fact she never arose until noon each day.

My reply was courteous, I believe,
 but brief. "Madam, there are just three avenues by which weight is reduced—less food, more exercise, less sleep—and you have closed them
 all. I can't help you."

And similarly with increasing weight; there are just the same three ways, but of course, using the opposite method—more food, less exercise, (in the sense of being on the feet so much), and more sleep.

Beginning with food, there is often the difficulty of a poor appetite, a small stomach or a stomach that hangs low because of no supporting fat. However food can be made more attractive in appearance so as to stimulate the "brain appetite"—eyes, sense of smell—thus causing more digestive juices to be poured out not only in the mouth but by the stomach, liver and pancreas also. One of the first things taught a nurse is to make the serving tray attractive to stimulate the patient's appetite. And even if the appetite is poor, a little more food than is "wanted" can be safely taken and digested by one who is underweight.

The special foods to eat are the "concentrated" foods, foods rich in food value—fat meats, cream, extra butter on vegetables and bread;
 more sugar in tea and coffee and also in dessert; more milk, cocoa, and chocolate; eggs. Fruits and vegetables should be taken daily to prevent constipation.

In regard to exercise, just enough walking in the fresh air should be taken to stimulate the appetite and also help to prevent constipation.

Sleep or rest is about as important as food in increasing weight. Rest or sleep means that only about one-quarter to one-third of work is being done by the body as when one is standing or walking about. Thus an extra hour of real sleep or rest during the day or night can be a big factor in increasing weight.

Remember, then, whether increasing or decreasing weight, there are just three points to watch—food, exercise, sleep or rest.

Arthur W. Magee, New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commissioner, has dispelled disturbing reports in connection with the impending safety inspection of motor vehicles to the effect that many poorer folk would be deprived of their cars because of antiquity. "The age of a car will have no bearing whatever upon the inspection result so long as the car is mechanically safe and complies with regulations regarding equipment," Commissioner Magee declared.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: Jude Blinshop, my old flame, is mysteriously shot to death. That starts our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt. A series of strange accidents occurs. Then we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder, and nearly finished with sleeping powder. The Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears.
 Cook, William, the chauffeur, and Annie, the maid, suspect Higgins, the old butler. I lock him in his room, believing him the killer, and write out the case against each person.

Chapter 44

The Mark In The Sand

THERE was only one person left,
 and for a moment I hesitated.
 There was something repulsive about sitting there sorting evidence against the Skipper when the chances were that his body was floating somewhere in the churning waters of the Sound. And yet, having gone so far,
 I wanted to finish it.

I wrote the Skipper's name at the head of a fresh piece of paper and rattled on.

SKIPPER

Upset from the very beginning, Mot-tice obscure. By nature, would stop at nothing to gain an end that he believed in. Before the cyclone, asked me to keep Michael away from Jude.
 No real evidence as to her whereabouts when Jude was killed. Apparently the last person to see Jude alive.
 Knew of Higgins' gun. Had been seen to use it when she considered it necessary. Unusual for her to forget the days. With M. Farrington when prowler was heard in upper hall.
 With whole party when both attacks were made. Would have been trusted by anyone.

Seemed to know just where to look for brother's body. Alibi about second shooting substantiated by Higgins.
 Last person with M. Farrington before her second accident. Both disappearances coincide with disaster.
 (First—Jude's death. Second—M. Farrington's death.) First person to notice forced lock on Jude's door.
 Capable of any sort of bluff at any time.

In all probability, Michael was searching the house for her by that time. Nevertheless, the odds were against my getting another chance to think things out alone. Time was pressing. The dial of my watch registered 2:45. I imagined that the boat from shore would be at the Bluff by eight o'clock at the very latest. That left us a little over five hours. I forgot old Higgins locked in his room waiting for the police. I forgot everything. Feverishly I pored over those scribbled sheets.

I thought that the evidence pointed to one of two things—an elaborate plan of revenge on the part of William Miller and his wife, aided by an old friend in Cook, or to an obscure and inexplicable misunderstanding between Michael and the Skipper. It was clear that, in the latter case,
 the two culprits were not in each other's confidence. Michael had searched the Bluff for his aunt like a madman.

Far-fetched as it might seem, I really believed that he had been informed of the existence of his father.
 All of his actions seemed to indicate that he had stumbled upon some evidence against the Skipper. He was neither a fool nor a coward, and I could explain his anxiety to have the investigation dropped in no other way. It was an impenetrable mess.
 But the Skipper's guilt tallied with the evidence against Higgins.

There were few people in the world whom I could imagine Higgins trying to shield. Barbara Farrington was one. In her behalf the old boy would go to trial without a murmur. He might have taken those letters in an attempt to shield the Skipper. He might have substantiated her alibi and tried to get someone else's fingerprints on the revolver. He might have been with the Skipper when William found him out of his room on the night of Jude's death.

It was possible that he had been about to confide the whole story to me that day in the living room when he saw someone outside the window.
 Could that person have been the Skipper? But what motive—what earthly motive—could the Skipper have for killing the daughter of an old family friend, for killing her only brother, for twice attempting to kill her only sister? It was preposterous!
 I turned hopefully to the other view of the case.

M. Farrington Approves

THE Millers had motive and opportunity for everything that had happened. One of them could have shot Jude in premeditated or sudden revenge. William might have cut me down as I was about to stumble over some evidence. And if they could have enticed Michael's father from his hiding place, either William or Cook could have killed the cat and upset M. Farrington's room after guessing old Norman's identity, in an attempt to throw the house in a panic.
 It was highly possible that M. Farrington unconsciously held some evidence against them. Any of them could have both shot and drugged her and subsequently done away with the Skipper, who might have witnessed the latter crime. But if the Millers were guilty, how could I explain the behavior of Michael and his aunt?

I sat there for a long time, frowning at that paper. Even if the Skipper had been telling the truth, what of Michael? What had he and Jude talked about? Why had the Skipper been so anxious to keep that pair apart? I couldn't seem to get anywhere.

Michael, in the doorway, put an end to my speculations.
 I recited the case against Higgins to M. Farrington myself. Michael raged, stormed and threatened to tear me about the limbs. He would, he shouted, believe Higgins in opposition to Saint Peter. But M. Farrington took it silently, almost coldly, as if he had been expecting it and was in a measure relieved.

"You were quite right, James," she said, cutting short Michael's tirade.
 "It seems unfortunate, but we must take no more chances."
 My sympathies, I am afraid, were entirely with Michael. The logical thing for me to do was to present my case against William, but I hesitated to tell that story to Farrington. An opinion once lodged in her head had a tendency to stay there, and if I were wrong two innocent people would be jobless when the whole business was over. Higgins was safe and quiet. Since Gay was taking M. Farrington's view of the case, I let it go at that.

At her own request, we left M. Farrington to sleep. She seemed really much better and announced her intention of joining us downstairs the next day. Gay wanted to stay with her, but she wouldn't hear of it.
 Pretty much involved in our own thoughts, we made a weary trek down the stairs. In the lower hall,
 I grabbed an old jacket of Michael's and slipped out onto the terrace.

The Imprint Of His Body

IT WAS a beautiful night, starry, crisp and clear. The salt air felt good. Leaning against a pillar, I closed my eyes and listened to the steady roar of the surf. I stayed there until the uproar in my head had cleared a bit.

Then, lighting a cigarette, I strolled aimlessly in the direction of the bluff with some vague idea of watching the effect of the spray of the rocks below. As luck would have it, I roamed unconsciously over the exact ground that I had traversed so frantically that morning. I found myself pulling up with a jerk at the scene of Norman Farrington's death. The ground was packed and trampled from the impress of many feet. The marks of our skidding as we tugged on the rope glistened icily in the starlight.
 Wandering thoughts, reflections on Nature deserted me. I leaned over and looked down. Someone's feet, but still clearly defined in the sand below was the shape of poor old Farrington's body. Apparently it had landed hard without sliding or rolling. At almost any other point on the whole bluff,
 a heavy weight going over the edge would have rolled and slid to the beach below.

If the Skipper had gone over the edge, the extent of the bluff's outward slope would make it necessary for her to have struck sand. And if she had struck sand, the mark would still be there. The rain had stopped long before she disappeared, and the sand was too wet to be much disturbed by the wind. It would be impossible for anyone to jump clear of the bluff into the water, even at high tide. There was no moon and I was without a light, but my eyes had accustomed to the darkness and I saw the mark of Norman Farrington's body without any trouble. I raced along the top of that bluff, my eyes glued to the sand far below me.

When I finally halted on the rocks beside the stable, I knew beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Skipper had not gone over that bluff into the water. She rode the rocks, either where I stood or where Michael had fallen across by the boat-house. We had already examined that possibility, with no result.

I turned moodily back toward the house. That night couldn't end too soon for me. I tried to look at my watch, but my matches were gone.
 Striding rapidly along, I wondered what Gay and Mike were doing. It would be pretty terrible if the Higgins issue precipitated another row.
 The hall was still vacant, and the sound of voices rumbled in the living room. Peeling off the jacket, I made hastily in that direction, and just as my hand touched the knob, Gay's voice came through the closed door.
 "Then would you mind telling me why you were searching your father's pockets a while ago, and what you wanted with the key you took out of them?"
 I hung open the living room door
 in the silence.
 "Well, Mike?" I said.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Star dust and star

Reservoir fishermen tell a tale of a great pickerel, lifted from the Ashcently. The big trout and bass in the reservoir apparently have become wary of late, but there are reports of good catches made in the upper Esopus creek. The Traver Hollow stream also is said to be good since the heavy stocking of local streams with legal sized trout last month.

Missing among the holiday flood of summer residents were the James A.
 Hartvig, of New York. The Hartvigs possibly may not spend much time here this summer, since things are rushing with their flower pack business, in the interests of which both Mr. and Mrs. Hartvig visit states all the way to the Pacific coast in the course of a year.

An ornamental wall of creek cob-

WASHINGTON—This man Wallace of agriculture, with the shy, cornfield grin, is foxy.

He has been talking for a long time about his "Joseph Plan" of crop insurance, to be coupled with crop control and soil conservation legislation in a new agricultural program. But his special baby, the crop insurance plan, is not to the liking of all farmers. They have felt he was perhaps slipping a fast one over on them by which they would be compelled ultimately to pay their own crop control bills
 instead of taking it from the treasury. Congress has known the farmers' position all along.

Judge Hasbrouck's Paper on General George H. Sharpe

Judge C. D. B. Hasbrouck, president of the Ulster County Historical Society, read the following paper on General George H. Sharpe at the literary session of the spring meeting of the society today:

Slavery existed in the colonies prior to our Revolution from Great Britain. When the colonies had become states and undertook to make a charter for a free and independent nation they wrote into such charter "Human Slavery". No other course was open to them. It was a case of hanging together or hanging separately. The voting status of the slave was fixed at three-fifths of a person in one of the several compromises which found lodgment in the Constitution of 1789. But this vaunting of a free country was a lie and when it was not saved by commercial advantage the conscience of the young nation was aroused. In the fight of the nation to widen its domain new sources of irritation were constantly arising between those who favored and those who opposed slavery. In Congress there was a battle over the admission of Missouri as a slave state. A compromise was effected by an act of Congress in 1821 known as the Missouri Compromise. The act admitted Missouri as a slave state and restricted the introduction of slavery in the United States north of latitude 36 degrees 30 minutes. An act of Congress stands until it is modified or repealed. Notwithstanding the compromise there was a constant agitation of the slave question in the new country. There was even the cloud upon the national horizon.

Thomas Jefferson wrote of it, "The Missouri question is the most portentous one that ever threatened our union. In the gloomiest moment of the Revolutionary War I never had any apprehension equal to that I feel now from this source." Great Events Vol. 16.

After Jefferson's death William Lloyd Garrison who had set up a printing establishment in Boston in 1831 held the flaming sword and James Russell Lowell and Whittier sang the national songs for freedom; and the eloquent tongues of Wendell Phillips and Henry Ward Beecher made a phalanx of fighters as irresistible as death. It was into this atmosphere as accurately described by Thomas Jefferson that George H. Sharpe was born February 26, 1823.

In his heredity there were two strong strains, that of the German and that of the English. The German strain was that of the immigrant coming from the Palatinate and known as Palatiners. The ancestors of Sharpe settled at Germantown. The name of the original settler was Jacob Scherp, that of his wife, Anna Maria. They settled in 1711. The records of the German Reformed Church of Germantown, Dutchess county, N. Y., April 24, 1748, shows the baptism of George Sharpe, the son of Peter Scherp. He married Rebecca Teator of Rhinebeck on September 22, 1782. They had a son, Heinrich (Henry). He married Helen Hasbrouck, a French Huguenot, settled in Kingston and as a merchant became wealthy and influential. He was the father of George H. Sharpe. The residence of Sharpe's father was the house which has been moved from the site of the Governor Clinton Hotel in which we are now meeting, and stands at the rear of it. The new Kingston Academy erected in 1830 was built on what is now called the Academy Park just across the street from such residence. It is inferable that at that school some of his preparatory work for college was done. He was also prior to going to college, a student at the Albany Academy. He entered Rutgers College, New Brunswick in 1843, that college which has produced so many of the outstanding men of Ulster county. Theodore R. Westbrook, William S. Kenton, William Lounsberry, David M. Whit, Professors Isaac E. Hasbrouck and Louis Bevier, Jr., Senator Charles Davis and County Judge Charles F. Cantine. Sharpe graduated at the age of 19 in 1847. He delivered the salutatory address in Latin. From there he went to Yale Law School. After graduating he spent about four years, at first studying French under the best masters of Paris. He became so proficient in that language that native Frenchmen held him as a countryman. In 1850 and 1851 Judge Charles Johnson McCurdy of Connecticut was United States Charge d'Affaires at Vienna, Austria. During the administration of President Fillmore, Sharpe served under McCurdy as attaché to the United States Legation at Rome. Before returning to the United States he served some time attached to the United States Legation at Rome and acquired some knowledge of the Italian language. It was his French, which played a part in shaping his life career. On returning to the United States he was admitted to the bar in 1854 and thereafter practiced law in Kingston, save for three months in 1861 when he was with the 20th Regiment until 1862. In the law business he was a partner of the Hon. John B. Steele, member of Congress from this district, elected 1860 and 1862, and the firm of Hasbrouck, Sharpe and Linderman. The Kingston Democratic Journal of the day allows the inference that he was entrusted as a lawyer with matters of importance. In 1865 he married Caroline Hasbrouck, daughter of A. Bruyn Hasbrouck, president of Rutgers College 1840-1850 and first president of the "Ulster Historical Society". There were meetings of the Ulster Historical Society in New Paltz in October 1859 and in Kingston in 1860. Col. George W. Pratt was secretary of the society and he was wounded in the second battle of Manassas in August and died in Albany September 11, 1861. Col. Pratt was the life of the organization. After his death it became moribund. When the society had met in a memorial service I cannot find it met again. On the 16th day of October, 1859, pursuant to a recommendation of a committee to form the society, in the report of that committee it recommended George H. Sharpe for one of the four vice presidents. From his marriage until the breaking out of the Civil War Sharpe was interested in the affairs of Ulster county, delivered lectures here and there and on "Egypt and the Nile" before the Plattekill Literary Association. He ran for supervisor in Kingston in March, 1862, against Abram Deyo, Jr., and was defeated. He was secretary of the board of trustees of Kingston Academy, delegate to state and various conventions and displayed generally a penchant for private enterprise, a wide public spirit and exemplary patriotism.

As a Soldier
Fort Sumter was bombarded by the Confederates April 12, 1861. It resisted 36 hours. It was then surrendered by Major Anderson and the flag of the United States was hauled down. Five days afterward there was issued a call by the men of Ulster to take measures to furnish the quota of troops from this district. At that meeting George H. Sharpe was appointed a committee to report the following night (April 19) and there he was again appointed to receive subscriptions to maintain the families of the soldiers. The local military organization at that time in this county was called the Ulster Guard, the 20th Regiment of the State Militia.

When Fort Sumter was attacked, George H. Sharpe held a captain's commission in the 20th in the volunteer service. Sunday, April 29, the 20th with Colonel George Pratt commanding, took boat for New York. Captain H. Sharpe was captain of Company B. The regiment was ordered straight to Washington. It was assigned the duty of guarding the railroad from Annapolis to Washington and Baltimore. In June Lt. Hiram Schoonmaker, father of the late John D. Schoonmaker, resigned, and in the election of a new regiment for colonel, Major T. B. Gates received 24 votes to Captain Sharpe's 12. Captain Sharpe's enlistment was for three months. This company was disbanded by General Simpson in September 1861 for the reason that there were not enough men in the regiment to meet the demands of the service. Journal September 11, 1861.

At the Republican State Convention in 1861, General Sharpe was chosen a member of the state committee. In order to give voice to the local Democrats of the north organization for such purpose a People's Party. Captain Sharpe was elected a delegate of such party to the County Convention late in September. He made an address advocating harmonious relations between the Republicans and the members of the People's Party, or what were known as War Democrats. The convention ended by endorsing the state ticket and nominating a bi-partisan county ticket. On the state ticket William B. Wright of Ulster was the nominee for Judge of the Court of Appeals of the union of the Republican and People's parties.

On July 7, 1862, the state adjutant general issued an order under the direction of the general government in the following language: "The President of the United States has accepted from the several volunteers a quota of force of 300,000 men to serve for three years or until the close of the war. The organization of this state will be organized as herein provided and for the infantry arm of service. The senatorial districts as at present arranged are hereby constituted regimental districts." Thereupon a committee of the 10th Senatorial District (composed of the counties of Ulster and Greene) was appointed to cooperate in raising a regiment. By resolution the committee recommended that George H. Sharpe be commander. The committee met on the 12th of July. Kingston Democratic Journal July 16th. After being appointed colonel, George H. Sharpe undertook to get enlistments for his regiments and in doing so he made speeches at meetings held throughout the county, at New Paltz July 26, Esopus July 30, Rosendale August 4, Tuthill August 5, Dwaars August 6, Nanapanoch and Ulsterville August 7, Modena August 8, and again in New Paltz August 9. It must have been raised in 22 days. The regiment was placed between July 26 and August 17. (Journal) The Washington Guard, August 24 the 120th left for Washington and on September 10 it was already encamped five or six miles out of Washington.

Now that the 120th has become incorporated in the army of the Potomac, let us follow its colonel. The scene of its activities was the Valley of the Rappahannock. The second great battle of Bull Run or Manassas has been fought. The commanding general in that battle was Pope. He was out-generalled and out-fought by General Lee and his Generals Stonewall Jackson, Longstreet and A. P. Hill. Ulster county lost Colonel George W. Pratt and a large contingent of his regiment. The next great battle fought in the Valley of the Rappahannock was the Battle of Fredericksburg. The command of the army had fallen upon General Burnside, all too conscious of his lack of qualifications for the task. In that battle Col. Sharpe commanded his regiment. It was brigaded in General Sickles' Division and held in reserve and was not engaged until near the close of the battle. Only loss it suffered was the wound of several men. Near the 120th in the line of battle was a regiment recruited in New York city, composed almost entirely of Frenchmen. The colonel commanding that regiment, unable to speak French, failed to make his commands understood by his men. That resulted in confusion and threatened a serious break in the line of battle. After Colonel Sharpe had put his own regiment in line he went over and put that French regiment in its proper position.

For the loss of that battle of Fredericksburg General Burnside was generously and nobly took the whole responsibility and was succeeded in the command of the army of the Potomac by General Hooker. A Pinkerton detective family was the head of the Secret Service under General Burnside. He resigned with the severance of Burnside from command and the assumption of it by General Hooker. When he came into command an officer from army headquarters was sent to let the name of the officer who had the name of the French regiment in line of battle at Fredericksburg. He was informed that Colonel Sharpe was that officer. Shortly after that from the army headquarters there was issued an order directing Colonel Sharpe to appear there in person. In the interview General Hooker placed the French regiment in line at Fredericksburg and if he spoke French and how rapidly he could translate French. General Sharpe answered that he could translate as fast as he could read it. General Hooker was interested in a French method of administration of the Secret Service and asked to have it translated as soon as possible. Colonel Sharpe completed the translation and delivered it to General Hooker and requested an order directing him to return to his regiment. General Hooker did not comply with such request. He asked Colonel Sharpe to submit a plan of organization and method of operation of the Secret Service. The result was that General Hooker selected Col. Sharpe to install at headquarters of the army of the Potomac the Bureau of Military Information concerning the enemy. At the same time Col. Sharpe was also detailed as deputy provost marshal general of the army of the Potomac which facilitated the examination of prisoners and enabled headquarters to have all available information on the organization and composition of the enemy forces in the field. Col. Sharpe, as chief of the bureau, had among his assistants Col. John McEntee of this city. The act of Col. Sharpe in leaving his own regiment to help the battle of Fredericksburg and helping the colonel who could not speak French was perhaps insignificant at the time but it resulted in changing the whole course of Col. Sharpe's military service.

While I knew Fredericksburg was in Virginia, I did not know where it was or much about it. Meeting a young lady from that city in the north at a social gathering I asked her the innocent question, "How large a town is your Fredericksburg? How many people inhabit it?" "Well," she drawled, "there are about six or seven thousand Virginians alive there and in the burying ground near there are about fourteen thousand northern soldiers." And she hadn't read "Gone With the Wind".

The position of Col. Sharpe after the organization of the Bureau of Military Information was on the staff of the commanding general and at headquarters. Things were not looking up at that time for the cause of the Union. A correspondent of the Times, London, at the close of the battle of Fredericksburg wrote "A memorable day to the historian of the decline and fall of the American Republic." Horace Greeley in commenting on it said, "Not so, owl-eyed acolyte! But rather one of those days of bloody baptism from whose divinely appointed rise to a purer life, a nobler spirit, a grander, more benignant destiny."

December 15, 1862, saw the close of the battle of Fredericksburg. The next great battle in which the 120th participated was that of Chancellorsville, near the junction of the Rappahannock and Rapidan rivers. In that battle Col. Sharpe had his spirit sorely tried by the defeat of his general in a bloodier battle than that of Fredericksburg. Col. Sharpe having been ordered to headquarters, his place as commanding the regiment was taken by Col. Cornelius D. Westbrook. The losses of the Union Army in the Chancellorsville campaign were greater than those at Fredericksburg. The total there was about 12,000 while at Chancellorsville upwards of seventeen thousand men in round numbers formed the aggregate of killed and wounded. A local historian in commenting on the number so lost said it was within two thousand of the then population of the city of Kingston. The battle of Chancellorsville took place on the second and third days of May, 1863.

Battle of Chancellorsville
General Sharpe's services were notable in that battle. The battle was fought in a straddle of the Rappahannock river by the Union troops. During the tide of it the Union forces were driven back across it, leaving some 4,000 wounded behind. General Hooker, the commanding general, tried to arrange a counter-attack for the rescue of the wounded but the enemy refused to receive the offer sent for that purpose. Then General Hooker said to Col. Sharpe, "I would like to have you go. I cannot ask you to." Colonel Sharpe went at the risk of being shot down by the pickets but he managed to arrange as to have a pontoon bridge thrown across the river. The wounded who had been without attention were brought over by this means. General Sharpe in speaking of his contribution to the success of the Union in the Civil War said that the securing of the 4,000 Union soldiers he contemplated with the greatest satisfaction of any act of his military career.

Col. Sharpe remaining at headquarters, the command of the army was given to General Grant who was on to Richmond. Then General Grant said to Col. Sharpe, "I would like to have you go. START A SIMPLE BUDGET PLAN TO GET WHAT YOU WANT MOST

Do you envy your neighbors whizzing by in their new car while you walk?

How do people on modest incomes manage big-money purchases, you ask. A budget is the answer.

A budget helps you to get what you want and need without frittering your money away on things that don't count in the long run. It helps you keep your expenses for food and clothing within bounds, to allow you a car or more trips.

Food is the biggest item of expense if your income is low. Can't you lop a little off the grocery bills by buying flour, sugar, cereals and other staples in quantity? See what tasty dishes you can make with cheaper cuts of meat. Watch for specials on canned goods.

Set a definite, reasonable amount for clothing—on a yearly basis. Won't that help you keep the mistakes—the faddy dress, the hat that doesn't match anything—from piling up in your closet?

Many successful budgeteers on low incomes split their money six ways, allowing 20 per cent for shelter; 25 per cent for food; 15 per cent for running the household; 16 per cent for clothes; 14 per cent for health, recreation and car; 10 per cent for savings.

Why not start a trial budget—adjusting these percentages to suit your own special needs and wants. Our 40-page booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, tells you how. Tips on getting the most for your money in food and clothing. Ruled pages for your own budget plan. Take time to plan today, profit tomorrow.

Send 15c for our booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Tea Towels Furnish a "Dutch Treat"

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Do Tea Towel Motifs in Realistic Colorings

PATTERN 5868

Folks! Meet the "Dutch Twins" who find housekeeping all play and no work. You're sure to make quick work of their animated antics, embroidering them in speedy 8-to-the-inch cross stitch on a set of tea towels. You can use every color of floss you own in these seven quickly stitched motifs, for Hans and Hula are indeed "colorful" characters! Order the pattern and make a set for your own kitchen, or another's. In pattern 5868 you will find seven motifs—one for each day of the week—averaging 5 1/2 x 8 inches; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches used and color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

ter and honorable life bespoke him an exemplary citizen. His kneeling at the altar where his forebears worshipped exhibits his religious hope. General Sharpe was a good and great man. This study has brought me to the realization that when he died "There passed a glory from the earth."

The average soil which is more than slightly acid should be given two tons of finely-ground limestone per acre.

Soil surveys have been completed in 26 Oklahoma counties and soil maps have been published for 13 counties.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

Linen-Edged Shantung

Red and white striped linen edges the pockets, the buttons and the collar of a smart suit of white silk shantung designed by Creed of Paris. With the suit are worn a matching striped linen scarf, cotton-stitched white gloves and a white straw hat with a red flower.

Rosendale Women Close Season

The Woman's Club of Rosendale held the last meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. W. J. Vaughn on Main street on Thursday evening, June 3.

The meeting was well attended and proved very interesting to those present.

The program committee chairman, Mrs. Edward Huben, presented an outline of her work for next season, which includes a wide variety of topics.

Mrs. Edward P. Demarest reported $190 in the playground fund.

On June 23, a garden party will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Jesso Davis, to which members may invite their friends. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Rose Hasbrouck in serving delicious refreshments.

Lake Katrine

The regular meeting of the Lake Katrine Grange will be held in the Grange Hall Monday evening, June 7. A memorial program of interesting material has been planned by the lecturer, Mrs. Louise Ransom. Plans for the peace meeting to be held June 21 will be made on Monday evening. All officers are requested to be present in order that their cooperation may make the peace meeting successful.

Canned or fresh fruit juices lend variety to the breakfast. Among the more popular juices are prune, grapefruit, cranberry, orange, pineapple and—more lately—apple juice.

Houses IN BLOOM

DOWN the street the painters are at work. What was just an ordinary, somewhat weather-worn house is emerging in glistening, cream-white loveliness, with shutters as green as the glossy new leaves of the maples.

Across the way they're putting up rainbow-striped awnings—cool and smart and comfortable-looking.

Next door a shining white trellis is being built—ready to blossom forth in a cascade of rambler roses.

It's the time of year when homes should look their best. And every housewife knows what miracles can be performed with a little paint—a few yards of flowered chintz or cretonne—a trowel and some garden seeds.

Fashions and Household Hints for Women

Every Bride's Kitchen Needs A Reliable Book On Cookery

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

This year's brides are stepping into kitchens gay with summer colors and shining gadgets.

Faced with the endless rows of gleaming new equipment, many a bride may overlook the most important items.

Number one on her "must" list is a reliable cook book. Even if she's had quite a little experience, that still is a "must."

Four Other Necessities

She should have four other things:

1—Standard equipment—such as measuring cups that hold half a pint and are divided into quarters, thirds and halves.

2—Medium-sized utensils—in order to insure efficiency.

3—A good kitchen clock.

4—A notebook for jotting down tips received from friends. (A card file is more satisfactory in many instances.)

The bride should select simple menus, plan her first meals down to the last detail, learn to jot down daily the purchases she needs to make and start right in following standard recipes and instructions.

She must learn to measure dry ingredients just above the rim of her cup to level them off with a knife and to refrain from packing them down.

Early Shopping Trip

She should form the habit of making her purchases as early in the mornings as its convenient—and plan in advance so she doesn't have to go to market every day. (She should make her lists elastic enough to allow for changes in vegetables, fruits and meats when inspection reveals differences in costs and quality.)

And, as a check on the family pocketbook, she ought to work out a budget. To do that she will have to keep lists of prices—at least until she gets so she knows about what they will be.

Hints For Notebook

Here are a few cooking hints for her brand-new notebook:

Bacon should be cooked in a cold frying pan. It may be heated slowly and the fat poured off as soon as it collects, to be used later for browning and seasoning foods.

All vegetables should be drained thoroughly as soon as they are done. Allowing them to stand in water even a minute or two will make them watery.

Butter burns easily. Consequently it is a good plan to use other fats, such as lard, lard substitutes or oils, for browning purposes.

The oven always should be used to capacity. If biscuits are to be baked, for instance, it's wise to plan baked meat cakes, escalloped foods, or other dishes which will require approximately the same baking period.

Leftovers will shrink on exposure to the air. They should be allowed to cool and then covered with waxed paper before they are stored in the refrigerator.

Egg yolks will curdle if they are allowed to cook a long time. If they are to be added to cream mixtures, such as a la king dishes, they should be mixed in just a short time before the dish is served.

Safe storage of meat and milk requires refrigeration with a temperature of 45 degrees, and even below that if these foods are to be stored longer than 24 hours.

Children's summer travel clothes should be loose-fitting and made of non-scratchy, wrinkle-proof material such as seersucker, cotton crepe, or some of the new cotton-knit fabrics.

Suggestions for kitchen showers for June brides, based on personal experience of former brides, are given in Cornell bulletin E-357. This bulletin may be had free from the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

When storage space in a small house is valuable, a stout sack of ticking or khaki cloth fastened to the back of the largest closet door will be very useful. Card tables and other large items may be stored there.

Life's On Level Now For 'Upside Down' Girl

BEFORE
Two years ago Alyce Jane McHenry was thin and helpless as she hurried by rail from Omaha to Fall River, Mass., for an operation on her "upside down" stomach. Today she's playing parts in school plays and otherwise leading the life of a normal girl.

By B. W. BLAKE.

Omaha, Neb. (AP)—Alyce Jane McHenry, the "upside down" stomach girl of 1935, who lived on a diet of ice cream, today is enjoying life as a normal, healthy youngster of 13 years.

Two years ago she was carried on a stretcher to an east bound train for a fast trip to Fall River, Mass. There the skill of Dr. Philemon Truesdale triumphed over her ailment and opened up a new life.

Pain then could not dull the flashing smile that won for her the hospital nickname "Sunshine." The smile is still there—wider and brighter.

Rides Bike, Now.

The spotlight that held her in its glare at Fall River has passed on to others, but Alyce Jane doesn't care. She's having too much fun to think much of that period of fame—and pain.

In the two years since she left the hospital she has learned to ride a bicycle—her most frequently expressed hope at the time of the operation—and to roller skate, dance and swim.

She has become quite an amateur actress, too, and played the title role

AND AFTER

In a recent play staged by her school drama club.

"I'm having fun being like other girls of my age," Alyce Jane says. "But they don't let me forget my studies."

The child's development was fast after Dr. Truesdale moved her stomach from her chest cavity to its right position and sewed up the rent where it had slipped through her diaphragm.

Samaritan Still Aids.

Within a year after she left the hospital she grew three inches, put on pounds until she was a bit overweight, and traded paleness for healthy red cheeks.

The unidentified business man who supplied the funds that sent her to Fall River still keeps a watchful eye on the girl and aids her in many ways. His identity has never been revealed.

Brush over the top of an unbaked pie crust with a mixture of one egg yolk combined with two tablespoons of milk. The liquid should be applied quickly with a pastry brush or a cloth firmly tied to a fork.

If there are several children in the family, rotate their tasks each week to stimulate a little competitive spirit.

Etiquette

Commencement Don'ts For Distracted Parents

By JOAN DURHAM

(AP Feature Service Writer)

There's something peculiar about the parent of the species.

Given ordinary circumstances and everyday affairs, papa usually keeps a pretty level head. Mama, all things being equal, reacts fairly normally in most minor crisis.

For some reason, however, graduations seem to strike a response apart.

If you're anxious to maintain that above-par respect your son or daughter has for you, here are a few commencement don'ts and do's:

Look Your Best

Put your best foot forward. If you can't invest in a new outfit, splurge in a thorough cleaning and pressing job. Get your old hat re-blocked. Have last year's somewhat faded light blue silk dress and jacket ensemble dyed dark blue and get a smart new hat and gloves to match. (It will pay big dividends in your son or daughter's pride.)

Leave pet names and family photographs behind. Find out what August is called by his college mates and refer to him in a similar vein—unless, of course, that nickname is worse than your own. If they call him August follow suit. No more of this "Augie" business.

No Apologies

Don't apologize for or explain Augie's social blunders. He'll be self-conscious enough as is. No kidding when he doesn't do a jumping jack every time bluster France comes into the room.

Remember that Frances is apt to do what's being done by her group on her campus. No cements when she lights a cigarette. Here will be plenty of opportunity for them to clear the air.

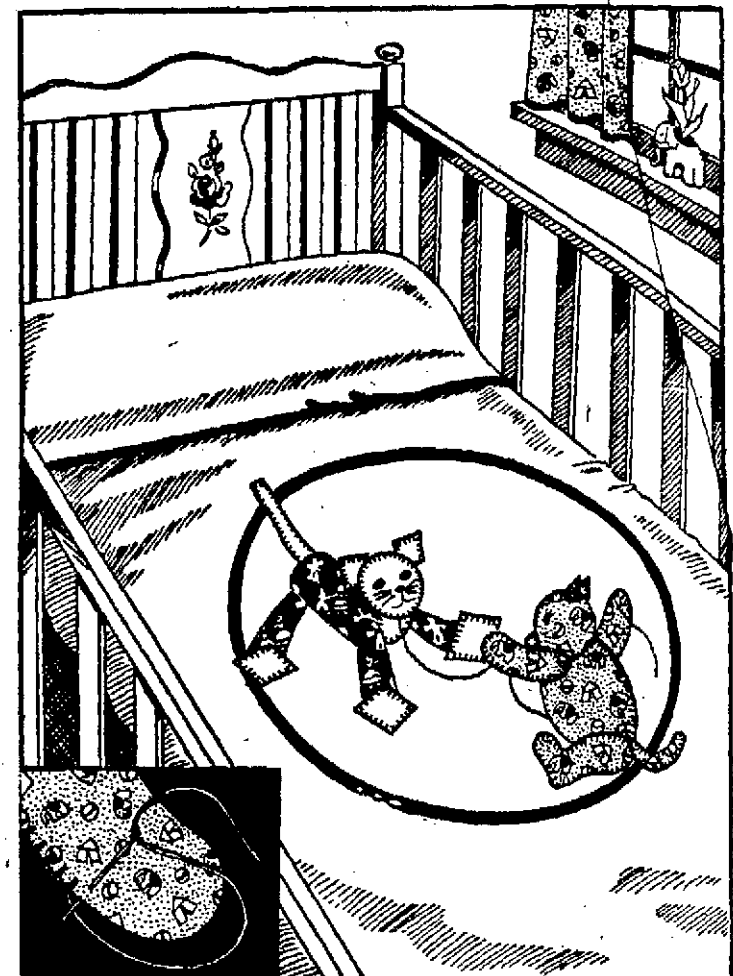

The chances are you'll only prove proud parents among many. So don't do too much talking about the objects of your interests. If he's worth raving about his illegals will take care of that.

Forget that story about Augie's first date—when he introduced his best girl.

And—last but far from least—on time for each event you're expected to attend. There's nothing more upsetting for the already-tired graduate than to spend his or her last few undergraduate hours keeping appointments for someone else.

A Colorful Bed Coverlet Makes A Cheerful Child

FOR HAPPY AWAKENINGS
Animal designs on his bed coverlet amuse the child and teach him a sense of color. They can be stitched easily at home.

By ELISABETH MAY BLONDEL

Prepared by McCall's Magazine For The Freeman

Parents agree that even the youngest child should have artistically pleasant room decorations. Good taste should be started early; and it is much easier to be a cheerful child in cheerful surroundings.

The walls, the hangings and the furniture all decide the effect, but the small child is likely to get his first notions of color, pattern and texture from his bed coverlet.

A pretty coverlet for a child's bed is easy to make, from simple materials and gay, amusing appliques. For instance, those two animal favorites, the cat and the teddy bear, can be cut from bright small pattern cotton prints; pink, let us say, for the bear, and blue for the cat. The cat should have head tail and paws in a plain contrasting color, like yellow against a blue, yellow and red print.

First you stamp the patch pieces out and baste them on the coverlet material. The sewing is done with the button hole stitch in black strong cotton, evenly worked around the edges.

The material should be good quality unbleached muslin, or white sheeting, gingham, fine pique or percale. The circle around the animal is made from bias binding tape, No. 5, stitched by hand. All materials should be fast color.

Color harmony with the decorations should be sought first, especially with curtains and slip covers. If the curtains are dotted, the circle could repeat the color of the dots.

The size of the center design is 21 3/4 by 22 inches—good for regulation 36 by 56 spread, or larger or smaller. The bolster should be 18 inches deep, same width spread and, like it, edged with bias binding tape laid flat.

Inquiries may be sent to Miss Elisabeth May Blondel, the McCall Corporation, 230 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y.

BALLERINA BUOYANCY
A ballerina-type dance frock of blue starched silk marquisette has a bell skirt with a horseshair hem.

(AP Feature Service Writer)

New York—News events have cast their shadows over evening fashions. The coronation in London, the Degas Exhibition in Paris and the Pan-American Exposition in this country—each has left its imprint.

The evening gown, in fact, is the most controversial garment in the summer wardrobe.

Elegance par excellence is the result of the coronation. Luxurious fabrics, rich embroideries, encrustations of diamonds and brilliants—appear in some of the most elaborate evening dresses of many seasons.

New Dance Frock Length

Paris and London needlewomen were no sooner busy stitching away on coronation gowns than stylists swarmed to the Paris exhibition of portraits done in the latter 1800's by Hilaire Germaine Edgard Degas.

ELEGANCE PAR EXCELLENCE
Silver paillettes which form short cap sleeves and pointed motifs around the high waistline add to the elegance of a graceful dance frock of white silk marquisette.

Monsieur Degas' ballerinas and their gay dance frocks inspired much use of bright colors, bouffant skirts and slender waistlines.

They also focused attention on a new ten-inches-from-the-floor skirt called "waltz frock length."

New Colors

Along came plans for the Pan-American Exposition, which opens June 12 in Dallas, Texas. With them arrived such hues as Mayan Blue, Toltec Green and Aztec Red, named after ancient So. Western races.

Further complications arose when the Duchess of Windsor-to-be selected several gowns, including her wedding gown, in a shade called "Wallis Blue."

All Types For Summer

To fill the gap between gowns patterned after coronation styles and the short-skirted ballerina frock Schiaparelli launched a new silhouette. It was ankle-length in back, shorter in front, and had harem-draped lines suggestive of Oriental splendor. And it was introduced as something new for formal dining.

As a result all types of evening costumes will be seen this summer. Tailored pique dresses with cut-out patterns—worn over contrasting slips—will appear on country club porches.

Soft-colored organdy frocks (ballerina length) with bouffant skirts and grosgrain or velvet ribbon trimmings will float about over outdoor dance pavilions.

Beaded silk chiffon gowns topped elaborate wraps of summer velvet will be seen in metropolitan roof gardens.

No Bare Heads

Few summer belles will be caught bareheaded.

Bandeaux of pique and braided organdies will appear with dresses of the same materials.

Garlands of real or artificial flowers—with or without very flattering veils floating below them—will headline shining coiffures.

Evening shoes will be comfortable and flattering. Out at the heel and port-holed or criss-crossed at the toe, they will wait through many moonlit evenings.

Helps For

Housewives

The refrigerator should have a weekly cleaning. Remove all food, take out trays and shelves and wash the latter thoroughly in hot water and soap suds.

Wash the inside of the refrigerator with warm water and soap suds and rinse with a solution in which one tablespoon of soda is added to each quart of water. Rinse again with warm water and wipe with a soft cloth. Then leave the box open for five minutes or so to allow the insides to dry.

Equip the guest room closet with plenty of hooks and clothes hangers. Add a shopping bag—to hold soiled clothing. If a private bath is not connected with the guest room, towel racks on the back of the closet door will prove convenient. A waste or sliced vegetables, meat or fish-basket clock, ash trays and good lighting equipment for reading and dressing should be included.

If a large piece of ice is necessary for the punch bowl, remove the racks from the largest cube tray, fill the tray with water and, when it is partially frozen, add slices of lemons, oranges and candied cherries. Green mint leaves, too, lend a colorful note.

Glue pieces of felt to the bottom of candlesticks, vases and other ornaments likely to scratch finished wooden surfaces. (Discolored brass are excellent for a felt supply.) Mending glue or cement will prove sufficiently adhesive.

Bacon, ham and sausage drippings make excellent seasonings provided they are not burned. Pour off the drippings as soon as they collect. Cover and store them in the refrigerator and use them for seasoning vegetables and meats—or for browning such foods as croquettes.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Societies Clubs Personals

American Legion Auxiliary.

The third district of the department of New York American Legion Auxiliary will hold its June conference at the Southampton Hotel in Catskill, Saturday, June 12. Luncheon will be served at the hotel at 12:30 o'clock. The conference will immediately follow. Reservations for the luncheon must be made by Thursday, June 10, with Mrs. Harry D'Algo, telephone 2190-M.

Annual Garden Party.

General plans for the Y. W. C. A. Business Girls' annual garden party to be held on Friday, June 25, at Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler's garden, were outlined at their committee meeting held last evening at the home of the newly elected president, Miss Ruth Vandenberg. The affair will be in the form of a desert bridge with the guests coming at 6:30 p. m. and playing cards or enjoying the garden until dusk. At that hour the garden will be lighted and a program of music and dance numbers will be given on the lawn. The general committee, in charge of the party are Miss Mary Howard, chairman; Miss Frances Robinson, Miss Ruth Bell; tickets, Miss Dorothy DuMont; Miss Margaret Messenger; refreshments, Miss Dorothy Eleton; Miss Elsie Phillips; properties, Miss Francis Osterhoudt; Miss Marion Phillips, Miss Alice Gillett.

All members of the Y. W. C. A. Business Girls' Club who plan to attend the club meeting Wednesday, which will be held at Maple Arch Homestead, are requested to notify the "Y" office not later than Tuesday morning. Members will assemble at the "Y" at 6 p. m. and the supper is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock.

Kingston Musical Society.

The Musical Society of Kingston met Wednesday at the home of the president, Miss Eva Clinton, to discuss plans for the coming year. The annual picnic, which will be held Thursday, June 24, at the Central Hudson recreation center, is in charge of Mrs. Clarence Wolfersteig. A short musical program followed the business meeting, in which Mrs. Henry Millonig, Jr., played several piano selections and Mrs. Henry Dunbar sang a group of German lieder. Following the program, delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Z. Childster and Mrs. A. Noble Graham, the hostesses for the evening.

Jason C. Carle, a student at Rider College, Trenton, N. J., is spending the summer months at his home, 157 Henry street.

Mrs. Gladys Smith, daughter of Leslie Smith of 308 Clinton avenue, with her husband, spent the Memorial Day holidays with her father. They returned to their home at East Chatham on Monday evening.

Lutheran Choir to Give Cantata.

Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, the choir of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will present a cantata, "The Daughter of Jairus," by Sir John Stainer. The choir consists of 35 voices and is under the direction of Leonard Stine. The soloists will be as follows: Sopranos, Miss Dorothy Groves, Miss Ruth Duryea; tenors, Joseph Kearney and John McCullough; basses Leo Boice and Donald Clark. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The Baraca and Philathea classes of the Wurts Street Baptist Church will hold a special meeting Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. B. Terwilliger, 329 Union street. This is an annual affair and is always very much enjoyed by the members of both classes. The wide veranda and the grounds overlooking the river furnish an ideal place for this gathering. A pleasant time is promised all who attend.

Miss Marie Ulrich, of Flatbush avenue, has been elected as a delegate to attend the national convention of the Catholic Daughters of America, which is to be held at Breton Wood, N. H., the week-end of July 4. Miss Ulrich is grand regent of Court Santa Maria, Catholic Daughters of America.

St. Ursula Social Evening.

Tuesday evening, June 8, the Mother's Association of St. Ursula's Academy will sponsor a social party in the school auditorium to which the public is cordially invited. This evening's party is held each year in connection with the annual garden party, but was postponed this year until the above date.

Youth Alliance Meeting.

The Jewish Youth Alliance will hold an important business meeting Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the social hall of Temple Emanuel. A complete report of the recent dance for the summer will also be discussed. The club has received several invitations to participate in meetings to be held in Kingston in the near future. Following the business session, Belle Black will entertain with several vocal selections. Some surprise entertainment is being planned by the entertainment committee. Music will be furnished for dancing.

Zionists' Convention.

Next Sunday, June 13, the Hudson Valley Zionists Convention will be held at Congregation Ahavath Israel. The gathering will be addressed by several eminent speakers, among them Dr. Galub and Morris Rothenberg, a former president of the Zionist Organization of America.

C.D. of A. Installation Postponed.

The installation of officers of the Catholic Daughters of America, which was to have taken place Thursday evening, June 10, has been postponed.

The Kingston College Women's Club will hold its annual picnic at Watson Hollow Inn Tuesday evening. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Mrs. J. Richard Shults, chairman, Mrs. Eugene Hotchkiss and Mrs. Kenneth Garside. Anyone desiring transportation is asked to call Mrs. Shults, telephone 1722.

Miss Charlotte Schober of Rochester has returned to her home after spending the holidays with her grandmother, Mrs. E. Fetter, of 105 Downs street.

Miss Elizabeth DeWitt of Hurley is spending the week-end in New York city.

Mrs. William Shuler has returned to her home on Albany avenue after having spent several weeks in Rochester.

Miss Marguerite Quick, of the board of elections office, is visiting in New York city.

The Rev. and Mrs. Frank B. Seeley of Fair street are among those attending the general synod of the Reformed Church of America which is being held at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodor Oxholm of Esopus are entertaining at a small dinner party tonight at their home, "Rosemont."

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clum have arrived from Lima, Peru, and are occupying their summer home at Malden. Mr. Clum is American Consul General in Peru.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Rodie and Mr. and Mrs. Rutgers I. Hurry of Saugerties are spending the week-end in Madison, Conn.

Aron Whittington, a student at Princeton, is a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davenport of Stone Ridge.

Mrs. Harold Rakov, accompanied by her son, Peter, expects to leave Monday to spend a week visiting in Syracuse.

Among those making reservations for the card party this afternoon by the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary are Mrs. Fred Snyder, Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Mrs. Dowd S. Meyers, Mrs. David Terry, Mrs. Harry Walker, Mrs. Howard Lewis, Mrs. Chester Van Gaasbeek, Mrs. Harold Rakov, Mrs. Alva S. Staples, Mrs. William A. Frey, Mrs. William Simmons, Mrs. Clarence L. Gannon, Mrs. Arthur C. Quimby, Miss Bessie Brewster, Mrs. Nell K. Harrison, Mrs. Frederic S. Carr, Mrs. Clyde K. Wood, Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush, Miss Minnie Husted, Miss Mary Treadwell, Mrs. John B. Krom, Mrs. Kenneth Le Fevre, Mrs. J. S. Taylor, Mrs. Robert Herzog, Mrs. Arthur H. Wicks, Mrs. Eugene Freer, Miss Jessie Allan, Mrs. Alex B. Shufeldt, Mrs. C. J. Hesselman, Mrs. George Ross and Mrs. John G. Van Eitten.

The Junior League will meet for luncheon on Monday with Mrs. Allan Hanstein at her summer home at Westkill. Installation of officers will follow the luncheon.

Ellenville School Teacher Honored

A pleasant event Friday night was the testimonial dinner given at the Wayside Inn, Ellenville, in honor of Miss Ada C. Holmes, for the past 13 years science teacher at the Ellenville High School. Miss Holmes terminates a teaching career of 36 years with the close of school this month, planning in the near future to exchange pedagogy for matrimony. Guests present on the auspicious occasion numbered over 50, comprising present and past members of the Board of Education and the faculty of the Ellenville schools. E. C. Hocmer, for many years principal of the Ellenville schools, now retired and living in Ellenville was a guest and

MRS. E. V. WILBERN

Mrs. Edward V. Wilbern, on whose estate "Meadowside," in Saugerties, the Ulster Garden Club will hold a garden tea and plant sale, June 15, heads the committee on arrangements.

Serving with Mrs. Wilbern on the executive committee, comprising chairmen of various committees in charge of details for the tea are Miss Isabel Overbagh, Mrs. Rutgers I. Hurry, Mrs. Frederic W. Warren, Mrs. George Washburn, Mrs. Gerard W. Betz, Mrs. William R. Kraft, Mrs. James O. Winston, Miss Margaret Rising, Mrs. Charles Tappen, Mrs. John T. Washburn, Mrs. William A. Warren and Mrs. Robert R. Rodie.

Tea will be served on the terrace and in the garden, where will be displayed for sale a variety of flower arrangements, perennial and annual seedlings and larger plants suitable for planting at this time for next year's bloom.

The material on display and for sale will come from well known private gardens in Ulster county. An added feature will be an exhibit of Mexican ware and craft presented by Mrs. F. W. Sheldon. The Ulster Garden Club cooperates in Kingston and Saugerties in park planning and for the past several years, the proceeds of the flower sales have been devoted to this purpose.

YOUNG DU PONT VISITS FRIEND IN SOUTH

Frear, who represented the elementary teachers. E. Boyce TerBush, Jr., clerk of the Board of Education, presided as toastmaster.

Mrs. Ruth Brunette Rencher, music director at the high school, gave two vocal numbers, "Gypsy Love Song," by Herbert and "Nighty Love Song," by Nevin. Miss Grace Everett, oral English teacher, gave two dramatic monologues.

work in the Ellenville schools with the highest commendation and also spoke in glowing terms of her connection with the social and religious life of the community and the fine character she has exemplified in all her relations.

Mrs. Frear, on behalf of the guests, presented to Miss Holmes a handsome solid silver salad bowl, expressing also the sincere wishes of her many Ellenville friends for a happy married life. Miss Holmes accepted the gift and replied to the many pleasing references that had been made, in pleasing manner, although evidently affected by the many expressions of regard that had been given.

Crocheting Job Uses

57 Miles of Thread

Quincy, Mass.—Mrs. Margaret Glass figured she used nearly 57 miles of thread to crochet two bedspreads, set of curtains, chair sets, bureau scarfs and a tablecloth.

Mrs. Glass says the bedspread alone took 22,000 yards of thread and 2,500 "pop-corn" knots. The complete bedroom set took her 15 months to make.

High School News

Pictorial Demonstration

The students of "B" assembly Thursday morning were witnesses of an interesting sound picture experiment conducted by representatives of two of the leading sound apparatus concerns. With the lower-class attendants viewing the proceedings with much interest, a series of short pictorial features were displayed under the apparatus of two different motion picture hook-ups. Mr. Dumont, principal of Kingston High School, supervised arrangements with B. C. Van Ingen, superintendent, and Theron Culver, vice principal, among the onlookers. The principal purpose of the experiment was to determine by actual tests the most suitable array of apparatus for the local auditorium. A motion picture projector installation has been proposed for the next school year and tests were conducted with this view in mind. Pathe News presented the double feature attraction dealing with cities study.

"We, The People," a short film feature dealing with the provisions of the Social Security Act, was the initial cinema attraction. Accompanied by sound, the film explained the proper procedure in the application and completion of the social security forms and explained the benefits of the legislative act. "Old Age Benefits" extolled the numerous bounties received from the financial aspects of the Social Security Act and the subsequent comfort in old age provided by the law. "Youthful Old-Age" was the finale of the three-film program and further exemplified the legal and financial set-ups of the bill. After the attractions were exhibited under one system, they were re-run under the other apparatus in a comparative test. Further tests were conducted by the representatives and officials of the local high school upon the completion of the assembly program.

The final subscription drive for the 1937 Maroon, annual year-book published by the Senior class, was in progress during the week. The outstanding publication compiled by the current Senior Class Maroon staff will surpass all other past year-books in numerous capacities. With the new offset printing process allowing for profuse use of pictorial features and informal snapshots, the forthcoming year-book is certain to establish a new standard. The current staff of the Maroon has inaugurated many new features in the year-book and the date of issue is slated for Thursday, June 10.

With the sudden approach of the June Regents examination schedule looming on the scholastic horizon, the customary postal report cards will once again hold sway in the lives of the students. Following the procedure of last June in which the students filled out individual cards for each examination, this year the examination schedule will open during the latter part of next week and continue until Friday, June 18.

Students are advised to secure the regulation form cards for each individual examination result. The authorized cards are on sale in the corridor throughout next week and will be completely addressed to a parent, guardian or advisor of student, giving street address and date. Students' name should be inscribed on back of card in left hand corner. The complete name of subject should be centered in middle of card with space left for the mark received in the examination for which the form is filled out.

Employment Permits

Theron Culver, vice principal of Kingston High School, appeared before the "B" assembly Thursday morning to discuss the proper procedure in the securing of vacation work permits. Regulation employment papers and regulations governing issuance to students were also a main topic of Mr. Culver's talk. Students intending to work in some form of employment during vacation recess period and who have not reached 16 years of age are obligated to secure vacation work permits. Students 16 years of age and over are not obliged to secure either vacation work permits or working papers.

The proper steps outlined by the vice-principal during the course of his informative discourse on the vital subject of employment contained many helpful hints. The parent of many students not above age limit must make a personal application for permit at the school office. Upon securing permit from school authorities, the paper must be presented to the employer or place of employment for certification, examination by the school physician at the high school medical room either on Tuesday or Thursday afternoons at 3 o'clock. A record of birth, baptism or other to cal document must also be presented to complete the application process.

Summer School

Announcement concerning the institution of the customary summer school sessions held yearly by Kingston High School was made Thursday and Friday mornings during the "B" and "A" assemblies. Mr. Culver, who supervises the summer school set-up as principal, stated that the opening session of the school will be held Tuesday morning, July 6. Regulations governing admission and registration will be the same as those enforced in past years with the usual non-resident fee of $10 per course. Delinquent students, advance study students and others desiring to enroll in the school to speed up or enable graduation as in former years, are eligible. Eighty-five per cent must be registered in the preceding term's work in order to enable enrollment in the advanced study course. Exceptions upon approval of the school authorities, will be made for senior class students and others deemed worthy of approval. Complete instructions and arrangements will be published in the near future. Registration for summer school subjects will be held during next week. Subject cards for prospective studies of next year's scholastic work were filled out Tuesday by the students stating the individual courses they were desirous of pursuing upon the convening of school next fall.

Senior Class Program.

The annual entertainment feature produced by the senior class students will be staged this year on Friday, June 11, at 12:45 in the high school auditorium. This yearly event, one of the top-ranking amateur presentations of the school year, promises to surpass past productions with a brilliant array of graduates with talent available. The assembly will mark the finale of the 1936-37 school year for the outgoing seniors and the entire production stars senior student material. The committee, appointed last month by President Frank O'Hara, consists of Roger Salzman and George Svirsky as co-chairmen with Margery Whiteley, Beatrice Weinberger, Mary Manion and Holt Winfield as the members of the governing board. Last June, the 1936 senior class arranged a superb presentation which is expected to be even surpassed by the forthcoming vaudeville revue.

Final arrangements are in all process of completion with an all-star cast and riotous comic features. Luring top-billing on the program, Solo vocal selections will be rendered by Harold Riley, Nathalie Phillips and William Wall. A dance group will perform its intricate evolutions aided by Mildred Ludwig with a hilarious faculty act entitled "School Days," slated to bring down the house. The assembly will mark the farewell gesture of the graduating class of 1937 in appropriate style, by closing a happy four year career of high school life for the seniors.

Dame Rumor Awards.

Dame Rumor, official KHS newspaper, will present its annual awards of merit pins to members of the 1936-37 staff in a special program scheduled to be staged next Friday morning in the "A" assembly. The presentation ceremony was instituted last year by the advisors of the school journal, Miss Agnes Scott and Clifford Miller, in recognition of the journalistic efforts of the student reporter staff. A small gold embossed emblem with the appropriate wording will be invested to the members of the staff entrusted with the responsibility of the bi-weekly paper. Following Dame Rumor's scholastic award, the bi-weekly paper will receive the awards of merit. Managing editors—Adam Moncur, associate editors—Margery Whiteley, Paula Marks, John Euck, Robert Whiteley, Ella Gulda and Virginia Rogers; sports editors—Robert Stone, Irwin Thomas, Elsie Buchanan, Betty Gill and Fred Buchanan; advertising managers—Judge Diamond, Albert Rose and Fred Wadnola; circulation managers—Roger Salzman, Donald Mathews, Carol Ensign, James Norton and Collins Troy; business manager—Richard Pfeiffer; club editor—Julia Gulda, alumni editor—Mildred Ludwig; exchange editor—Janet Van Hovenberg.

Photographic Awards

The 1937 Maroon year-book presented the initial award ceremony in the photography contest sponsored by the photography club to encourage the senior journal to encourage the snapshot art among the student body and to provide material for the pictorial supplement. The contest, which has been in sway some two months, was officially ended Friday morning during the "A" assembly. Editorials, stating the name should be inscribed on back of card in left hand corner. The complete name of subject should be centered in middle of card with space left for the mark received in the examination for which the form is filled out.

The governing group was comprised of Mrs. Horroth and Miss Beale, of the local faculty, and Mr. Short, of Pennington Studio. Judges' decisions were final in all verdicts.

Editor McManus presented the first prize award to John Ench, a senior, who received $2 for his photographic ability. Three second place awards of $1 were bestowed on a trio of amateur artists consisting of Donald Burgher, Robert Hawkey and Maxine Taylor. Honorable mention in return for the snapshots submitted was accorded Donald Burgher, also, and William Moncure to terminate the first photography contest staged by a Maroon year-book staff.

History Courses

Mr. Culver, vice principal, addressed the students of the "A" assembly Friday morning in regard to the proposed attempts of Senior students engaged in the History "C" courses. In his discourse, Mr. Culver stated the increasing difficulty of the top-ranking history course and pleaded with all seniors to avoid "doubling-up" on the advance term. Recently the syllabus of the course dealing with topic events has been strenuously reinforced and subsequent failure has proved the undoing of the graduation hopes of many of the seniors. In advising the students as to the proper course to take, Mr. Culver stated the opportunity afforded students to complete the course by attending summer school. The history course is a vital unit in the history of several courses listed on the local high school roster and the students were advised to use caution in the event of advanced work. The Bible course students were advised to file their second course card before June 10 in order to insure participation in the yearly examination conducted at the high school. No student who has not progressed with the usual non-resident fee of $10 per course will be allowed to enter the yearly examination.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hollywood
Sights And Sounds

By MRS. ROBBIN COONS

(Guest columnist for her husband)
HOLLYWOOD—A Hollywood correspondent's wife can paraphrase Milton: "They also serve who only stand—and answer the telephone."

Hollywood correspondents are nomads by the day. So the home telephone becomes the eventual clearing house for more than half the calls. It's a maliciously psychic thing, and seems to know when I am in the tub, or trying to deal in approved nursery school manner with my almost-three-year-old who is covering his toy animals for their "naps" instead of undressing for his own.

Press Agents Hound 'Em

Quite often, I'm afraid, I don't manage that "cheery hello" the telephone company advertises, although I try. I know I'm no good at it when the calling party uses that established Hollywood custom of having his secretary get you on the line and then keeps you there while he decides to pick up the instrument.

That's the telephone then. It went like this:
"No, he isn't in. This is Mrs. Coons; may I take a message? No, I don't know where he is at the moment. He said he was going to the office first, then to Paramount, and later he had a date with Pat O'Brien. Why not try Paramount? ... Oh, no trouble at all. Goodbye."

That was a press agent. I have a very good telephone acquaintance with that particular one. I know very well that it was NOT important, as she said. She has a new client, some hanger-on in pictures probably, and she will pursue my poor husband by telephone until she hears from him, always politely, that he is not interested. My "secretarial duties" include playing alarm clock after middle-of-the-night calls from the news office.

There was the time, for instance, when the office called at 3 a. m. My husband mumbled into the mouthpiece, replaced the receiver, and went back to sleep.

"Somebody Elope"

I turned on the light, shook him. "What—uh—what?" He stared at me indignantly.

"The telephone! What was it?"
"Oh" (he was turning over again now), "somebody eloped—Jean Harlow. ... Silly time to elope."I shook him violently. "Listen! JEAN HARLOW ELOPED!"
"What?" He was astonished. "Great grief! Quick, my clothes. Call the office back, will ya? Great grief!"

Conklin Retires

Frank Conklin after serving the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation faithfully for a number of years has retired and will reside permanently at his home in Rosendale. His many friends welcome him there.

Exhibits and Talks
To Feature Program
Of Local Stamp Club

At the regular meeting of the Colonial City Stamp Club scheduled for the Governor Clinton Hotel on Monday evening, June 7, a novel series of talks will be inaugurated which will feature and exhibit the stamps of the various countries in which the individual members are specializing.

To many persons a stamp is simply a bit of colored paper to affix to a letter, serving only the purpose of carrying and delivery charges. A little study will surprise a person when he finds the amount of history, political knowledge, architecture, and natural products of the countries that are depicted upon the face of the various stamps, as well as picturing many famous buildings, epochal events, and portraits of men that have built empires. Many of the world's outstanding events are brought to attention through the postage stamp.

This small unnoticed messenger that serves all parts of the world, making use of every known mode of transportation devised by man, is the small cog in the big wheel of the world's correspondence, sending and bringing messages of business and friendship to and from all corners of the globe.

The local club extends a hearty invitation and welcome to any interested visitors, and lists the following members who have consented to exhibit and talk upon some phase of stamp collecting: The Rev. W. F. Stowe, almshouse; Dr. Mandell, illustrated pages; Harry Streiffer, Barbados; Leo Schupp, naval covers; E. J. Linson, interesting junk; Sidney Clapp, commemoratives and jubilees; Arthur Tongue, precancelled; Charles O'Connor, "1847's"; Charles Terwilliger, parcel post; Marjorie Darrow, old covers, Dr. Mittelstaedt, Japanese, C. A. Raschke, foreign covers; Paul Jones, revenues.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Shall We Dance"

The box office team of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers continue to dance their way into the hearts of their audiences in this latest song and dance effort produced by RKO-Radio. It's the story of a dancer and his various romantic plights and the Astaire-Rogers combination trip through several new dance routines, even going to the extent of dancing on skates. The play is a bit production from start to ending and Edward Everett Horton and Eric Blore supply the comedy element with performances that nearly top the show. The music and lyrics were scored by George and Ira Gershwin and the cast boasts such additional big names as Ketti Gallian, Jerome Cowan, Harriet Hector and William Brisbane. Mark Sandrich directed and the production itself was handled by Pandro S. Berman.

Kingston: "Internes Can't Make Money". A throw off from the same school as the famous movie "Men in White", the Kingston Theatre offers its public a melodramatic play concerning internes and one young doctor especially who is torn between love and duty through most of the film. The hospital scenes are excellent and Joel McCrea and Barbara Stanwyck do excellent work in the featured roles along with Lloyd Nolan. The picture delves into the question of medical ethics on occasion but for the most part it is stern and rigorous drama as it pits crime and violence against a young doctor's idealism for his profession. Adults will find this one especially enter taining.

Orpheum: "Smartest Girl in Town" and "Trouble in Texas". A modern love story concerning a boy and a girl in constant disreputement yet madly in love is the feature attraction at the Orpheum with Ann Southern and Gene Raymond making faces at each other and then making up. "Trouble in Texas" follows the usual western formula with Tex Ritter termed the singing cowboy, starred along with his horse and cast of lesser lights.

Tomorrow

Orpheum: "Racketeers in Exile"

and "Hit the Saddle". An ex-racketeer and his associates go into the soul saving racket in the first feature at the downtown theatre, a gripping and melodramatic picture with the husky George Bancroft featured in the best part handed him in many a day. Wynne Gibson and Evelyn Venable are also in the cast. "Hit the Saddle" is the other attraction, a western thrill story of pounding hearts and pounding hoofs with Bob Livingston starred.

This season they were supposed to even better equipped, particularly a strengthened pitching staff
a lineup boasting the last two true batting champions. And they away in front, sporting a four-lead at one stage of the early season.

During the last 17 games, they've been showing no obvious signs of going back to their bad habits. In their last 17 games, they've played under the ball, and have taken only one foul in seven.

After their last foul has been against a supposedly sting-less Bees pitcher. After losing to one of the "old man" rookies, Lou Fette, Thursday, they did the same thing to their next opponent, Jim Turner, yesterday, walking their own plank with fouls, and dropping out to defeat him.

As a result their lead was cut out in the ninth game over the Giants, and a half over the Cubs.

Both of these outfields, coming nicely after slow starts, picked round yesterday by splitting a header.

The opener, Carl Hubbell, made his first start since Brooklyn ended its 24-game two-year winning streak, was belted out as the Cub's first home-run behind for a 6-5 win in 10 innings.

After the nightcap, Clyde Scharf, who ended the Cub streak at 11 games, pitched a 1-0 win.

New York Yankees' American League lead was cut to two games as Indians topped the world champion for the second straight day, 5-1.

High School Track Squad Get Letters

The Kingston High School Athletic Association presented varsity letters to 16 members of the 1937 track squad in a special assembly yesterday morning at the high school. Evelyn Olivet, president of the A. A. Council, presided over the award ceremonies. The cinder chummers recently completed a strenuous four-month campaign, and achieved a long-sought goal by emerging victorious over New York Military Academy.

The Maroon and White conquest of the powerful prep school combine marked the first victory registered in over a span of eight campaigns. Kingston closed its campaign with one victory in four clashes, losing to Poughkeepsie, Middletown and placing third in the DUSO meet.

Poughkeepsie routed the locals by a decisive margin in the opener, and the Maroon lost a heart-breaker to Middletown in a surprise effort before scoring over N. Y. M. A. The locals showing in the DUSO league track tournament at Middletown resulted in third place for a new high team total.

With G. Warren Kias, director of athletics, and Loryne Connolly, formerly of Central Valley, as coaches, the local harriers and heavers showed tremendous improvement and their splendid showings stand as a tribute to the fine team spirit exhibited by the team.

Received Letters. Maroon varsity insignia was awarded to Capt. Mike Weiner, Captain-elect Bill Von Essen, Ike Campbell, Holt Winfield, Phil Fertel, Art Christman, George Riftenbary, Gene Wren, Bill Bushnell, Jesse Shultis, Dick Decker, Harry Sperling, Joe Stahl, Harold Jones, Ed Terwilliger, and manager Joe Heaney. Capt. Mike Weiner, sensational local ace, racked up 42 points in his brilliant dash and field escapades during the campaign, for one of the most sparkling records ever compiled by a KHS harrier. Bill Von Essen, '38 leader, and Weiner, versatile veterans head the list of members returning with such stars as Bill Bushnell, high jumper, Gene Wren, 440 man, Joe Stahl, pole vaulter, Harold Jones and Ed Terwilliger, sprint and relay men. Jesse Shultis, miler, 'Dick Decker, weight man and Harry Sperling, lanky high jumper coming back to the fold.

War Admiral and Pompoon Seek Win

New York, June 5 (AP)—War Admiral and his shadow, Pompoon, go after more gold and fame today.

Recalling the famous duels of Cavalcade and Discovery three years ago, the winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and the horse that shadowed him both events come together with five other three-year-olds in the 68th running of the $50,000 Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park.

Each time they have met this year the shadow from J. H. Louchheim's stable has moved a little closer. Pompoon was two lengths back of Samuel Riddle's ace in the mile and a quarter of the Derby. A week later he reduced the margin to a head in the mile and three-sixteenths of the Preakness.

The big question to the 40,000 fans expected to pack the picturesque Long Island course is whether the shadow can pass his rival over the longer mile and a half—a test that calls for both speed and stamina.

Trainer C. F. (Danny) Clarke was among those confident that Pompoon would turn the tables, break into the big money for the first time this year after winning $82,260 as a juvenile, and ruin the little Admiral's hopes of being the fourth horse to win the American turf's "triple crown." Only Sir Barton, Gallant Fox and Omaha have won Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Bookmakers were so confident that War Admiral would chalk up his fifth straight victory, however, that they established him the 4 to 5 choice with the prospect that odds would drop still lower before post time (about 3:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time). Pompoon was held at 7 to 2.

Home Leaders Meet Phoenicia Sunday

Charlie Diers' Home Leaders will cross bats with the Phoenicia Baseball Club Sunday afternoon at the mountain town diamond. The game will start at 2:45 o'clock and local players are requested to meet at the Athletic Field not later than 1:15 o'clock Sunday.

"Schoolboy" Bush will do the pitching for the mountaineers with Earl Benjamin behind the platter. Misove, Mahar, Uhl or Huber will be available for the hurling assignment for the Home Leaders, with Don Kelly, catching. Other local players are: Dulin, Ditzik, Purvis, Minasian, Van Deunen, Flanagan and Gadd.

Bing Wins Again
Agua Caliente, Mex., June 5 (AP)—Owner Bing Crosby still surprised by the recent victories of his stable, was $800 richer today after Lady Lake-side, a filly, brought him his eighth purse of the current Agua Caliente season yesterday.

Johnny On The Spot

—By Pap

P. J. (Patsy) Donovan once handled the Cleveland Indians, Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Red Sox. It was natural that his son, John M., should possess a share of his father's athletic prowess.

Young Donovan went to Dartmouth, where Jeff Tereau, former big league pitcher, handles baseball. Everyone figured John was set for a baseball career. But John had other ideas.

He is a natural ball player. He was certain to win a varsity berth had he been so minded. He proved that last spring when he was drafted to fill in at first base for Mutt Ray, the Big Green's regular first-sacker. With no preliminary practice Donovan stepped in, banged out three hits against Harvard and helped Dartmouth tie the Crimson for the Eastern intercollegiate league championship. But baseball was not for him.

Donovan's baseball-minded dad gets a kick out of his son's triumphs in his chosen field—track. The boy is a hurdler, one of the best. As a sophomore last spring Donovan won the I. C. 4-A outdoor titles in both hurdles events. He was the first to win both since Earl Thompson, his predecessor at Dartmouth, turned the trick in 1921.

John scored several important victories on the boards last winter and topped off a successful indoor season by taking the intercollegiate hurdle championship.

He is a great competitor. He is at his best when the pressure is on. His speed on the flat has won many a close race. His ability as a sprinter has enabled him to snatch many victories with flying dashes to the tape.

Jack Robins Picks City Loop All Stars

An All-Star team of the City Twilight Loop will travel to Newburgh Tuesday evening to try their wares against a picked group of diamond stars of the hilly city league.

Jack Robins, no doubt the best catcher ever turned out in Kingston and at one time manager of the old Colonials, was asked to pick a team to go to Newburgh and he has selected the following players: Kelly and Zadany—catchers; Komosa, Milano and Brown—pitchers. For the infield he has placed Dobrosky at first base; Niles at second; Sticker at shortstop; DeCicca at third and Turk at a utility infielder. In the outfield he chose Merritt for left field, Malmes for center field and Gadd for right field. Berardi will be the utility outfielder. Jack Dawkins was selected as player-manager.

It is understood some of these players cannot make the trip so the following along with the aforementioned are requested to be at the Athletic Field Monday evening: D. Rask, Rider, Purvis, J. Dulin, Van Eiten, Jack Dodge, Celuch, and Knight.

Tiano Rolls 226 In Duckpin Match

Charlie Tiano's 226 is a new Colonial League record for the season, surpassing the 204 held by Herl Van Deunen. This is the highest score ever rolled in duckpins in league competition in Kingston. Tiano also holds high triple record of 476.

Bridge City Bouts Carded for Monday

Poughkeepsie—Hudson valley favorites, many of them who have appeared in past bouts at Kingston and Poughkeepsie, head the first outdoor card of boxing bouts at Woodcliff Park Monday night, sponsored by the Poughkeepsie A. C. and promoted by the Dean brothers.

Gunner Smith, West Pointer, fights Johnny Bleski, tough Schenectady leather pusher, in the feature five-rounder, a bout which is expected to be a wild-swinging, rough and tough affair from the opening gong. The two have been gunning for a chance at each other for the last three months and were brought to Poughkeepsie after much hickering.

Jackie Filkins, West Point, opposite Patsy Morris, of Albany, while Johnny Pomato, of Schenectady, fights Sammy Travelato, of Poughkeepsie. Harry Porter, Millbrook negro, meets William Allen, of West Point, in one of the preliminary bouts, while three other preliminary bouts are yet to be carded.

The bouts open at 8:30 o'clock.

San Francisco—Sonny Walker, 201, Phoenix, outpointed Bob Ford, 180, Arizona (10).

NEXT GAME WEDNESDAY
The next dusty loop game will be held on Wednesday evening at the Athletic Field. Berardi A. C. and Rosendale will come together at this time. Tuesday's game was postponed on account of the All-Stars' game in Newburgh.

Coremo Outpoints Eddie Steele, Kid Chappie Decisions Romano

Before a full house Friday night at the Municipal Auditorium, for the mayor's industrial boxing bouts, Guy Coremo, 155-pounder, from the Johnstown CCC Camp, outslugged Eddie Steele, 159, for the decision in the featured five rounder, getting even with the Poughkeepsie wild man for the technical knockout he scored several weeks ago.

Coremo had outpointed Steele in the Bridge City bout a month ago, then met him in Kingston. The second battle was a setback for Guy because he injured his right eye, and Referee Bill Singer had to halt the fray. He was out to show his superiority last night and convinced the officials. However, he failed on his promise to kayo Steele.

Steele, too, was after last night's laurels and the two mixed it plenty from the start, slashing exchanges featuring the duel. Coremo, however, appeared stronger in the heavy hitting. He floored Steele in the third round, and tried for a kayo as Eddie got up to continue, but could not put over a finisher.

In the fifth and last round, the two batters threw punches from every corner of the ring, both trying for a "kill," but the fray went the limit, Coremo suffering another cut eye, this time the left one just before the thing ended in his favor.

Filkins Beats Murrell
Benny Murrell, rugged 138 pounder from Hudson, subbing for Angie Eorentino of Johnstown, lost to Jackie Filkins, 136, of West Point, in the five round semi-final. Murrell started strong but the West Pointer rallied in the third and fourth to outbox his rival for a unanimous decision.

Murrell hurt his left arm in the fourth frame, and after the mill had to be treated at the Kingston Hospital.

Kid Chappie for the second time proved his superiority over Danny Romano, Beacon featherweight, by tattooing the rushing little brawler with a stiff left jab as he tried to reach him with a body attack in the first three rounds. In the last two, Chappie slugged it out with Danny in a furious exchange, the two standing toe to toe throughout the fifth. The Kid had Romano tired out at the finish and won the unanimous decision of the officials—Bill Singer, referee; Jack Finerty and R. B. Blakeslee, judges.

The other special five-rounder was won by Pete Gama, 131, of Newburgh over Eddie Leadbitter, 134, of West Point. Gama poked the soldier with stiff rights in the first and second and in the fourth had him wobbly from a barrage of round-house slams. He continued in the fifth and copped the decision.

Results of Prelims.
Johnny Castor, 145, Highland, decision Billy Lisa, Johnstownville CCC, three rounds.

Billy Pelez, 145, outpointed Al Reno of Poughkeepsie, substituting for Kid Burns of Kingston, three rounds.

Irv Van Kleeck, 124, Kingston, scored a technical knockout over Mike Larratonda, 126, Schenectady, in the first round.

Bouts Next Week.

Announcer Samuel J. Rither informed the fans that next week's bouts would be held Friday night in a new arena to be constructed in the parking grounds adjacent to the auditorium, weather permitting. He also announced that negotiations are under way to have Joe Furin, Middletown, middleweight, meet Jackie Feldman of Schenectady in the return bout he asked for after their first slugfest to prove he is superior to the betting leechman over whom he thought he won before.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT.

(By The Associated Press.)
New York—Danno O'Mahoney, 230, Ireland, threw Tom Hanley, 240, Oklahoma, 18:50.

North Bergen, N. J.—Dean Detton, 205, Salt Lake City, threw Jack Donovan, 208, Boston, 22:49.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Ed Don George, 218, Buffalo, pinned Cy Williams, 228, Tallahassee, Fla., 19:52.

Kansas City—Ali Baba, 215, Kurdistan, defeated Nanjoo Singh, 220, Bombay, India, two out of three falls.

Norma Is Best 'Man' On Boys' Team; Betsy, 13, To Boss Own Sandlotters

Richmond, Va. (AP)—Betsy Thomas and Norma Loving, 13-year-olds, are, respectively, the "Frankie Frisch" and the "Mungo" of Richmond Junior high schools.

Betsy is a second-base man with managerial plans and Norma is an ace right-handed pitcher.

"We have more than 400 students," says Coach N. A. Woodson of Albert Hill high, "but Betsy is about the best ball player we've got."

Over at Chandler High they feel much the same about Norma, who ranks as No. 1 hurler over a score of boys.

Norma has been playing ball a year. She starts her pitch high and follows through gracefully. She has fair speed, her control is excellent and she possesses a sharp breaking curve which junior high batters have found puzzling.

Norma yielded only four hits in a recent game with Hill. Betsy, tough-haired and dusty, collected one of them.

Betsy is organizing a team of boys which she will enter in a sandlot league this summer. She'll be manager and second sacker—just like Frisch.

"She is an expert hunter," says Woodson, "and, with the infield pulled in, frequently drops a short hit over their heads."

Betsy's ambition now is to join the football team, but she'll have to grow some. She scales just short of 100.

With short bobs, both girls peer easily for boys on the diamond.

Favorable Stock
Market on Friday

New York, June 5 (AP)—Stocks got off to a good start in today's brief market session but, aside from favored specialties, most fell back under week-end profit selling. The gold fever appeared to have abated in the wake of the President's warning against worry over this situation.

The price of the yellow metal was lifted about 1 cent an ounce in London and sizeable purchases were made for American account.

After a fairly active first hour the volume dwindled. Transfers were around 400,000 shares.

Bonds, although quiet, did rather well with a number of secondary railroads edging forward. Commodities were uneven.

Shares on the upside as much as 2 points or so most of the time—general retreated before the finish—were J. I. Case, Deere, International Harvester, Marshall Field, Montgomery Ward, Coca-Cola, Allis Chalmers, Yellow Truck, Inland Steel, American Steel Foundries, Republic Steel, Briggs Mfg., Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Howe Sound, Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Phillips Petroleum, du Pont, General Electric, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Chesapeake & Ohio, General American Transportation, Air Reduction, Loew's and Liggett & Myers "B."

Inclined to slip were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, North American, Electric Power & Light, Phelps Dodge, Seaboard Oil, Amerasia, Certain-teed, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Great Northern.

The statement of President Roosevelt that he did not plan to send further messages to Congress this session was a factor in the favorable stock market session yesterday. Early the market showed a recovery tendency and it closed strong, with volume of trading picking up toward the close as prices moved upward.

Averages at the close showed a gain of 2.32 points for industrials, rails were up 0.65 and utilities were practically unchanged, being off but 0.04.

Corporate bonds were up, on the average, 0.24 points, the largest gain in a good while. Governments were steady and commodities averaged higher.

There was again a large offering of gold on the London market, but authorities there estimate that 70 per cent of foreign gold hoarded there has been or is in the process of being liquidated.

National Power & Light reported net of $2,374,989, or 36 cents a common share, in quarter ended April 30, vs. net of $2,004,244, or 29 cents a share, in 1936 period.

Freight loadings in week ended May 29 totaled 734,855 cars, a new high for year. Barron's business index for same period declined .9 of a point, to 87.6 per cent of normal.

The apparent jam in rail reorganization is expected to be ended soon, with ICC report on Western Pacific plan, closely followed by reports on four other plans.

McLellan Stores May sales were $1,948,602, up 9.7 per cent; W. T. Grant $8,614,253, up 3.4 per cent; Edison Bros., $2,542,855, up 29.3 per cent. Kroger Grocery & Baking Sales for four weeks ended May 22 totaled $20,029,539, up eight per cent from year ago.

Air conditioning sales for April were nearly double those of a year ago. Lehigh Valley Railroad reported April net income of $214,418 vs. $268,814 year ago.

Communication companies are expected to show earnings in first half of year comparing, in many cases, with 1929 results.

Strikes which closed two General Motors plants at Pontiac and three Chrysler factories at Detroit were terminated last night.

Schirick Hears
Keough Incident

At a special term of Supreme Court Friday in which matrimonial difficulties predominated Justice Schirick has several matters brought to his attention.

One of the matrimonial matters was the application for a decree of absolute divorce brought by Margaret S. Keough of Canaan, against her husband, George R. Keough, a White Plains engineer. Mrs. Keough testified she was married at Port Chester in 1922 and had three children. Her husband said he was employed as an engineer at White Plains and she had been residing apart for over a year.

Mrs. Keough testified that about a year ago it was brought to her attention that her husband had been unfaithful. In 1931 she said he had visited Montreal with some other men and the acts upon which she seeks the decree took place there. She said she and her husband had been separated once before but had returned to live together. When she learned of the Montreal incident she left him and has not since lived with him. Her previous separation was about six years ago.

Two of Keough's acquaintances, one an engineer and one a salesman, testified they had been in Montreal in 1931 and there saw Keough in company with a young woman. Later they went to an apartment where Keough and the lady were and Keough told them to go on home that he would follow in a few days.

Judge Schirick directed the testimony be taken but said the decree would not be granted until after he had communicated with the Albany county clerk from where the action had been transferred.

FISH AND GAME ACTIVITIES

Nelson W. Snyder, president of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association, when interviewed recently regarding the future activities of this association for the remainder of the year, said, "The activities for the balance of the year depended entirely upon the response from the sportsmen. The membership at this time is very small and unless additional members and funds are obtained at once most of the plans which have been made to provide better hunting and fishing will have to be abandoned."

It is the belief of the officers of this association that better fishing has been provided this year by the stocking of the largest number of legal size fish that has ever been placed in the streams in one season. Every stream within the territory allotted to this association has received some legal size fish. Heretofore only the Esopus has been stocked with this size fish, and then only in comparatively small numbers.

The next problem is the rearing and releasing of pheasants. The large amount of territory which has been posted in this vicinity makes this a difficult problem. At the meeting of this association held last January, the officers promised that if those interested in the sport of hunting would cooperate with them, they would attempt to form some plan whereby more grounds would be available for hunting. Much information has been secured about methods and plans being used in other states and sections where conditions are similar to those prevailing here. While most of these plans have been in operation for only a short time and many defects have been detected in their operation, they are a start in the right direction and have provided hunting upon lands that had formerly been closed to the public.

The question which now confronts the officers of this association, is how badly do they want hunting and to what extent are they willing to cooperate with this association to provide it?

The funds available in the treasury of the association at this time will not be sufficient to pay for the raising and releasing of the number of pheasants which had been anticipated and for which plans have been made. These plans originally called for the rearing of 500 pheasant chicks and the hatching of 1,000 eggs. In former years these chicks had been raised to the age of eight weeks and then released. This year they will be kept if possible to the age of ten weeks before releasing, as it is the general belief that birds of this age are far more capable of taking care of themselves than are the birds of a younger age. Unless funds are available within the next few weeks part of this program will have to be abandoned. During the next few weeks a membership drive will be made with an endeavor to secure enough funds which will warrant carrying out of the rearing program for pheasants as originally outlined.

In the "Daily News" Thursday, June 3rd, appears an article by Thomas E. Brady, president, Southern New York Fish and Game Association, in which he writes: "Fishing and hunting has been getting poorer for the past few years and it can't improve under the present set-up. If we expect to perpetuate public hunting and fishing in this State, the sportsmen must take over the job and do it. No miracle is going to happen in the present Conservation Department to right the situation. Owing to lack of organization on the part of the sportsmen, his wants received very little consideration in the last session of the legislature. It is important that the sportsmen organize and demand a non-salaried fish and game commission, representing the sportsmen of the state, such as has so successfully operated in other states."

While Ulster and Greene county Boy Scouts are holding a big camporee at the state armory grounds in Kingston, approximately 500 Dutchess county Boy Scouts are holding a similar affair at Camp Nootemong at Salt Point.

Concert Members
More Than 50

However, there are a limited number of memberships available, which can be obtained from the headquarters, which is located in the Governor Clinton Hotel, telephone, 2700. The checks should be made payable to the Cooperative Concert Association and mailed to headquarters.

Anyone who becomes a member of the association during this week-end campaign may, without additional expense, attend the four concerts which will be given in the school auditorium by the Barre Little Symphony, Jose Iturbi, Bampton and the Ionian Singers during the coming fall and winter months. No single admissions will be sold for any of the concerts and presentation of a membership card will be required for admission.

The campaign will definitely close on Wednesday, June 9 at 6 p. m. sooner if 1,123 members are enrolled before that date. At the completion of the campaign, the membership list of the Kingston Cooperative Concert Association will be closed for another year. Anyone who is not a member yet is advised to make application immediately at the headquarters in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Tomorrow may be too late.

GRANTS DISSOLUTION OF HOLMELUND

Emma Holmelund made application to Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick for an Enoch Arden decree dissolving her marriage with Paul Holmelund. Augustus Shufeldt appeared for petitioner. Mrs. Holmelund testified that she and her husband had been married at Bergen, Norway, on September 16, 1919, and had moved to the United States in 1923. They lived in Brooklyn and also Chicago. Mr. Holmelund was employed by the American Express Company in Chicago and in 1931 he left home without provocation and has never been heard from since. Mrs. Holmelund said she believed her husband dead.

Since his disappearance she said she had made efforts to locate him both in this country and also at Bergen, Norway, where his mother lived. Her letter had been returned. Mrs. Holmelund said she had also had an attorney try to locate her husband or ascertain any information as to his whereabouts but he too had been unable to get any trace. Not having heard from him in over five years, Justice Schirick granted the dissolution.

Though protected by law since 1833, mountain sheep in California are showing no appreciable increase.
